Introduction

THIS is the sixth annual issue of the Canadian Trade Index. From a small handbook published many years ago, irregularly, and in many different forms, the 1930 edition has grown into an 885 page book.

The special feature of the 1930 edition is the inclusion of a 54-page Special Export Section provided by the Department of Trade and Commerce of the Dominion Government. Full information as to this section, as well as other features of the book, is given in the Table of Contents and Index of Subjects.

The primary aim of the publishers to provide all buyers of Canadian manufactured goods, in whatever country they may be, with a dependable list of the articles made in Canada and the names of the manufacturers making them is still maintained.

It will be found that a very high percentage of manufacturers operating factories in Canada and having more than a local distribution of their products are listed. However, only the largest of industries that are entirely local, grist mills, brick yards, printing shops, soft drink factories, have their names included.

It is difficult to guarantee that no firm is listed except under articles of which it is a bona fide manufacturer for, under the complex conditions of modern business, it is almost inevitable that some firms receive credit for manufacturing lines that they only handle. A conscientious effort has been made to keep the work free from inaccuracies of this and all other kinds.

The publication of this book, the only one of its kind in Canada, containing as it does the names of members and non-members alike, is one of the many general services rendered by the Canadian Manufacturers' Association to the manufacturing community and the business public at large. It is confidently expected that the continuance of old and new features will prove most valuable in putting importers in other countries expeditiously and efficiently in touch with Canadian sources of supply.

It is the publishers' keen desire to make this book absolutely accurate. Silent criticism does not assist them. If there are inaccuracies in any particular, kindly bring the matter to the attention of the Editor.

The publishers reiterate their desire to offer their readers the service of the Commercial Intelligence Department which keeps in touch with industrial developments and welcomes enquiries with respect to both domestic and export trade.

It would not be seemly to close this introduction without tendering grateful thanks to the officers of many public bodies, the Canadian National and Canadian Pacific Railways, municipal and Governmental departments, and to the manufacturers furnishing the information on which the book is based for their careful and courteous co-operation which assists so much in making the Canadian Trade Index an authoritative account of productive activity in Canada.

Better Business Relations

The Domestic Market in Canada is likely to expand steadily in the next decade, but rapidly changing conditions suggest that endless vigilance and constant efficiency will be required of those who share the increased prosperity.

The greatest problems of Industry and Trade will center upon where and how to get a share of the business offered without accepting undue credit risks.

Whatever your problems, the Bank would be glad to give them consideration and to offer such advice and help as circumstances permit and conditions suggest. You may reasonably expect to benefit by establishing business relations with us.

Any branch of the bank will give painstaking and reliable banking service.

WORLD-WIDE DISTRIBUTION

ON the map on the opposite page are indicated Goodyear's 450 wholesale distributing points throughout the world.

What more striking evidence of Goodyear's public acceptance could one ask? What finer proof could one seek that Goodyear quality is known and respected wherever rubber products are used?

Goodyear manufactures in Canada—and ships to all the world — Tires for motorcycles, cars and trucks; Belting for transmission plants and conveyors; Hose for every purpose; Rubber Heels for all types of shoes.

Two great factories—at New Toronto and at Bowmanville (Ontario)—produce this world-known merchandise. A third great mill (recently doubled in capacity) at St. Hyacinthe (Quebec) spins the Supertwist Cords for Goodyear Tires . . . an exclusive Goodyear feature.

Learn about Goodyear Made-in-Canada rubber goods and how they can assist you in your business. Learn the indisputable reasons why "More People Ride on Goodyear Tires and Walk on Goodyear Heels Than on Any Other Kind".

THE experience and years of development that have evolved the Yates A-66 Planer and Matcher (above) and the V-54 Vertical Band Resaw (below) are your assurance of unapproachable quality of unexcelled production efficiency.

Power endurance stamina and a production speed of 500 feet per minute, if wanted, are a few of the things that A-66 offers you. And the V-54 is capable of such a wide variety of resawing jobs, such as center splitting of stock, gauge sawing, bevel resawing, etc., so economically and at so low an upkeep cost that it is unquestionably the outstanding machine of its type manufactured.

De Laval Machines

Designed by De Laval Engineers

Built by De Laval Experts

Who Know

The De Laval Industrial Centrifugal Machines purify by Centrifugal force both fuel and lubricating oil. They are used in factories, garages and wherever oil is necessary for reclaiming used oil. Electric Companies use them for dehydrating purposes. They are very successfully used for the clarification of varnish and other liquids, and for the purification of gasoline in dry cleaning establishments.

In the matter of pumps we can furnish one especially adapted for whatever use it is to be put, built in a wide range of capacities.

Our complete line of Dairy Equipment consists of:—

De Laval Magnetic Milkers
De Laval Milk Clarifiers
De Laval Cream Separators
De Laval Industrial Centrifugals
De Laval Complete Equipment for Creameries, Cheese Factories,
Milk and Ice Cream Plants.

Half a century of experience enables us to give the service we are proud to have known as De Laval.

Rumely Service

ROTATING ENGINE PARTS

ELEVATOR CASINGS

OUR production is made up from the special requirements of our customers. We maintain a shop force of over one hundred employees entirely on jobbing work. Our output varies from small feed rolls weighing less than a pound, to spiral stairways weighing 22,000 pounds.... Operating the four essential departments in our own plant enables us to handle this wide variety of work at reasonable prices and with dispatch unexcelled by any other plant in the province. We solicit the opportunity of quoting on your grey iron castings, machine work, steel work or light forgings.

Grey Iron Castings

We specialize on machinery castings of high quality texture and finish. A large part of our foundry's production is die work and tooling fixtures. Castings up to 1½ tons weight each are made. A good stock of cast washers, round bushing bars, manholes and frames is maintained.

Machine Work

Special machinery and general industrial repairs forms the greater part of our machine shop work. Equipped to handle larger jobs than the average shop, work 5' in dia. can be swung and shafts 20' long turned. This department is complete with ten ton crane and large erection floor.

Steel Work

Our steel shop is equipped to handle practically anything in welded or rivetted construction in plate up to ¼" thickness. We make to our customers' specifications the following:—elevator casings, conveyor troughing, steel piping, smoke stacks, boiler breechings, fire escapes, gear guards, brick trucks, stock racks, roof trusses, dump cars, hoppers, bins, spouts, buckets.

Light Forgings

Stock up to 3" square is worked. Production includes special rings, shop-truck parts, braces, shop fittings, eyebolts, mixer blades, bench supports, sewer steps, etc. Forge-shop is complete with large and small bulldozers, hammers, bolt headers, forges, oil furnaces.

GIANT CRANE GATE VALVES IN A TYPICAL INSTALLATION

WITH CRANE LIMITED, SERVICE IS NOT JUST A WORD

Crane Limited's service to industry may be divided into three parts.

1. The making of valves and fittings for any purpose. This activity includes vast manufacturing facilities, chemical research which has brought valve-making to scientific exactness, design which has necessitated exhaustive study of many industrial processes and situations.

2. An advisory engineering service for customers. Buyers can call on Crane Limited engineers, and these men will devote the 74-year Crane experience to the problem, recommending the best and most economical materials, counselling as to the proper lay-out.

3. A far reaching service of supply. Branches and sales offices are located in 15 Canadian cities, with large stocks of materials in convenient warehouses. Also ample stores of stock materials are kept on hand at Crane factories, to give the speediest possible delivery.

Such completely organized service is among the reasons why so many users depend on Crane Limited for all piping materials.

Specify "ALGOMA"

IF you are looking for Steel of sterling quality, steel that you can absolutely rely on—then SPECIFY ALGOMA. Algoma Steel has stood the most exacting tests that science has been able to devise. It has reached a pre-eminently high standard of excellence, directly as a result of many years' metallurgical research work and experiment. It is made exclusively by the open hearth process and is made to suit your every requirement. Then, too, when you order from Algoma, you may be assured that your demands will be executed at once, no matter whether the quantity be small or of tonnage capacity. We have installed special equipment in order to ensure rapid production and prompt delivery, and we know that if your name is added to the list of leading Canadian manufacturers who use our product, you will receive the utmost in quality and service.

Not only is this true of Algoma Steel, it is equally true of Algoma's other products such as Pig Iron, Coke, Sulphate of Ammonia and so forth. Every product that bears our trademark carries with it the hallmark of quality. Therefore—SPECIFY ALGOMA.

RAILS

Algoma pioneered, and still leads the way, in the matter of Rails. Next time you cross a railway track, take the trouble to examine it—it's almost sure to be stamped with the mark of quality—ALGOMA. Even in the early days when rail making was not the exact science that it is to-day, Algoma was jealous of her reputation as the finest rail maker in Canada, and in fact it was Algoma that originally suggested the famous "nick and break test" now standard in all rail mills. We manufacture every type of standard section up to 105 pounds per yard, and there is hardly a Canadian railway that does not use Algoma rails—and many of them specify Algoma exclusively.

COKE

Algoma coke is a domestic product that has sprung into eminence since we actively entered the commercial and domestic market. It is not a substitute, but is a real alternative to anthracite, and offers pound for pound more available heat units, at lower cost. It will do everything that anthracite will do—and do it better. A cheaper, better fuel, which offers smokeless combustion and relief from domestic drudgery. Our new screening plant can supply every domestic need, and in addition we have available a quantity of special furnace coke for commercial purposes that is a quality product in every sense of the term. May we quote you our prices?

PIG IRON

If you want tougher and better castings, you will find that Algoma Pig Iron is an ideal mixture that will give you the utmost satisfaction. Every casting that leaves our plant is strong, dependable and free from blow holes, pin holes and other such defects. Like our other Algoma products, you can depend on this Pig Iron, and furthermore you will find it extremely economical, both as to initial cost and as far as durability is concerned. We keep a complete supply of every grade at our plant and can serve you immediately with whatever you require be it foundry, malleable or basic. Foundry Pig Iron comes in four grades, malleable in two, and basic in standard grade, so that your needs will be well cared for. Just specify ALGOMA.

ALLOY STEEL

If you want a steel that gives, flexes, but does not break—one that will resist shock and show strength where the stress comes, then specify ALGOMA ALLOY. We have pioneered in this particular field in Canada, and Algoma Alloys are now used by practically every Canadian automobile manufacturer in Canada. Algoma Alloy Steels are all open hearth and are supplied in hot rolled bars or billets. We specialize in Chrome, Chrome Molybdenum, Chrome Vanadium, Chrome Nickel, Nickel, and Vanadium. They have 25 to 100 per cent. greater strength than carbon steels, and have greater hardness per unit of cross-section with no loss in ductility. Their use is growing in many fields, and already pleasure cars, trucks, locomotives, steamships, bridges, power generating equipment, etc., are taking their share of alloy steel and are demonstrating its value and economies. Be sure to specify ALGOMA.

Interested in Pumps Investigate Viking is Different

The Viking Pump is a Rotary with the action of a reciprocating on the inside. It takes the place of a Rotary, Centrifugal or Reciprocating. It handles the thickest liquids like glucose, chocolate, tar, or the thinnest, like gasoline, benzine or whiskey, also used as a vacuum pump. Made in high or slow speed; furnished in belted, or connected to gasoline, steam or electric motors. Capacities from $\frac{1}{2}$ gallon to 900 gallons per minute.

STEEL SHEETS

Galvanized—Black—Blue Annealed

For years fabricators and metal workers have been seeking a sheet embodying the exact characteristics which DASCON (Plain Open-Hearth Steel) DASKEEN or YOUNGSTOWN COPPEROID (alloyed with copper) and GOHI (Genuine Open-Hearth Iron) offer. Absolutely uniform in quality. Meets all the requirements of the trade for the reason the base analysis in each case is scientifically correct. CANADIAN ZINC is heavily and evenly distributed in the process of manufacture, ensuring Permanence, Quality, Economy and Beauty. This is demonstrated by the test of the American Society for Testing Materials and by reason of the fact that distributors for DASCON, DASKEEN and GOHI are—

Doors and Door Hardware

Super-R-Way "Mill-Type" Door.
Slidetite Style.

Super-R-Way Mill type Doors are Steel-to-Steel construction. Steel frames hold the narrow wood strips which compose the door. To these frames are welded the hangers or hinges upon which the door is hung. The wood portion carries no weight and consequently there can be no warping or sagging. Super-R-Way is a standard for railroad, shop and industrial plants. It is made in any size in sliding, folding and swing types.

No. 237 Factory Standard Slidetite.

No. 237 Slidetite Hardware is designed for factory and public garage doors. It is strongly made and very easily operated. Slidetite is made for sets of three and up to ten doors. It folds the doors inside away from wind and snow. No. 237 for doors 24" to 28" thick.

Fire Doors of Every Type.

 Pressed Steel Pots

For every heat-treating and metal-melting need

From the small forge for the blacksmith shop and the small cyanide and lead hardening Crucible Furnace for the tool-maker to large furnaces as shown above. We have helped in solving heat-treating problems for many manufacturers in all lines over a period of thirty-nine years. Perhaps we could offer suggestions that would prove money-makers for you also.

CHAMPION

Dependable for Every Engine.

IT is a noteworthy fact that the great championship racing events the world over are won with Champion Spark Plugs.

This would not necessarily be worthy of comment were it not for the additional fact that Champion equipped engines have been winning year after year with an almost unbroken regularity.

The acceptance of Champion as the better spark plug by famous racers the world over is due to their recognition of inherent superiorities exclusive to Champion which mean championship performance.

Adequate Fire Protection

The installation of "Almetl" Fire Doors means two important features to any plant—stops the spreading of fire—reduces insurance premiums.

"Almetl" fire doors are constructed of heavy galvanized steel, interlined with asbestos. And built strictly to the Underwriters' requirements.

"Almetl" doors will not twist or buckle under the most intense heat.

"Fire-Tite" Oily Waste Cans

Spontaneous combustion can be eliminated as one of the causes of fire if "Fire-tite" Oily Waste Cans are placed at convenient points throughout your plant or factory.

These cans are sturdily built of galvanized steel with high legs, and a lid that closes automatically. They are approved by the Underwriters. Made in three sizes.

Let us show you how economically we can protect your plant against fire.

THE "R" Shield watermark, which is familiarly known to Canadian consumers of bond, writing and ledger papers, designates a Rolland product—consistently good since 1882, when fine papers were first made in Canada by the Rolland Paper Co. Ltd.

Forty-seven years of manufacturing experience enables us to produce papers which meet with the approval of the most exacting business man. A few of the many well-known papers manufactured include:

Superfine Linen Record

For high grade letterheadings, contracts, deeds, etc., "The finest bond paper that is made in Canada."

Colonial Bond

Made in white and four colours. The ideal sheet for office forms that are handled a lot and filed for reference.

Earnscliffe Linen Bond

A really good sheet for large commercial corporations to use for general stationery. Made in white and eight colours.

Service Bond

A general utility sheet—excellent for circular letters—looks well, feels good. Made in six colours and white.

Empire Linen Bond

For those who want a paper of good appearance and quality at a moderate price.

Mount Royal Bond

For forms in use in or about the factory; between office and factory, etc. Made in white and six colours.

Enquiries for samples or advertising literature will receive the best attention of our Advertising Department.

Dreadnoughts for Power!

PERFORMANCE proves superiority. Dependable performance under the most rigorous conditions demonstrates how Burgess Batteries "stand up".

The uniform quality of Burgess Batteries is due to the exacting precision with which they are made. The use of CHROME, the preservative, means longer life and greater staying power, because it guards power when the battery is not in use.

Burgess Batteries, for ignition, radio and flashlight, are made in Canada at Niagara Falls and Winnipeg. Preferred by hundreds of thousands of users everywhere.

McCORMICK-DEERING

—in Agriculture —in Industry

WITH a background of 98 years of experience in designing, developing and manufacturing farm and industrial equipment, International Harvester offers every man in agriculture or industry a complete line of machinery that represents proven principles of success.

The McCormick-Deering line has grown up with the country and has contributed much to the welfare of the nation by eliminating unnecessary labor, reducing costs and increasing profits. The company has always been a leader in the development of tractors and power operated farm equipment—all of which has brought added comfort and profit to Canadian farms.

Industry has become power-minded and has reduced costs through the use of International Harvester Industrial Tractors and Motor Trucks. Today almost all motive power for the transportation of industrial products, whether in the factory or on the road is done by tractors and trucks.

MATHEWS CONVEYER COMPANY, LTD.

PORT HOPE, ONT.

Canadian Industry, steadily growing in size and output, no longer can afford to use the handling methods that were sufficient in years gone by.

Human backs and shop trucks have, in turn, given way to progress. Modern production now demands the efficient, rapid and economical handling that can only be had with mechanical conveyers.

SPEED MEANS SAVINGS

Not only furnishing greater speed in the production of Canadian goods, Mathews Conveyor Systems also have reduced costs in many of the Dominion's largest plants. Smaller shops, too, have made proportionate savings by using short lines of Mathews Conveyor between departments. Wherever this modern equipment has been installed, economies have been effected.

ENGINEERED TO REQUIREMENTS

Mathews Conveyor Systems are not sold "off the shelf" as standard units to which you must fit your plant layout. The Mathews method provides for an engineer to call at your plant without charge or obligation to you. This expert studies your production and plans a conveyor route to carry raw materials, semi-finished and finished goods through the manufacturing processes. His recommendations, if accepted, assure definite results.

USED IN MANY PLANTS

In these factories, various jobs demand different types of conveyers. These installations feature gravity roller conveyers, automatic incline and straight lift elevators, belt conveyers, straight and spiral chutes and special conveyers of all types.

AT YOUR SERVICE

The same engineering advice that has enabled these plants to put their production on a more efficient basis is yours for the asking. We will gladly send a Mathews engineer, or literature, at your request.

Tested on the Roads of the World

EVERY variety of road is exactly duplicated—every conceivable condition of road surface has its exact counterpart in the great General Motors International Proving Ground. Here in a tract of fourteen-hundred acres are the roads of the world . . . roads over which all makes of General Motors cars are relentlessly, ceaselessly driven. Distances normally covered in years are crowded into a few months—while the cars are subjected to every type of strain—called upon to prove their mettle in every exacting test which human ingenuity can devise.

And the findings thus arrived at come under the scrutiny of the experts of General Motors Research Laboratories — ever alert to improve, to make adjustments, to correct the minutest flaw and to banish all possibility of error.

The vast resources of General Motors thus perform a dual service. The economies effected by such tremendous purchasing power have their logical outcome in extra value. The ability to carry out tests which are world-wide in scope leads, as logically, to extra quality.

It is this extra value—this extra quality reflected in every phase of their performance that has made the products of General Motors so eminently fitted for the roads of the world.

Special Export Section

This Special Export Section, consisting of a general review of Canada's trade and many varied classes of data, will, it is hoped, prove useful both to Canadian exporters and their friends abroad who import Canadian goods.

The Department of Trade and Commerce, Ottawa, Canada, provided the material for the Special Export Section.

CANADA'S MINISTER OF TRADE AND COMMERCE

The Hon. James Malcolm, M.P., Minister of Trade and Commerce, Department of Trade and Commerce, Ottawa, Ontario.

SOME OF THE OFFICERS OF THE DEPARTMENT

F. C. T. O'Hara, Deputy Minister of Trade and Commerce, Department of Trade and Commerce, Ottawa, Ontario.

C. H. Payne, Director, Commercial Intelligence Service, Ottawa, Ontario, Canada.

J. O. Turcotte, Exhibition Commissioner.

W. A. Warne, Chief, Division of External Trade.

Wm. Gilchrist, Chief, Foreign Tariffs Division.

H. E. M. Chisholm, Director of Publicity.

Canadian Trade Commissioner Service

The Canadian Trade Commissioner Service, operating under the auspices of the Department of Trade and Commerce of the Government of Canada from the capital, Ottawa, is a service of great value at the free disposal of Canadians.

The members of the Canadian Government Commercial Intelligence Service who serve abroad are called Canadian Trade Commissioners. It rarely occurs that a name so adequately describes the office they hold as does the name Canadian Trade Commissioners. They are Canadian. They must represent Canada in the territory allotted to them for purposes that other countries represented in the same country may appoint ambassadors, consuls, commercial attaches, and trade commissioners to accomplish. The Canadian Trade Commissioners may be called upon, within limits, to take the place for Canada in their territory of any or all of the above mentioned officials of other countries. Therefore, they must be men of education, character, experience and ability so that in public and private appearances they will be worthy representatives of the country that sends them, and so that they may mingle on an even footing personally with the most important people socially and politically in the country to which they are accredited. The public impression that these men make, necessarily, has considerable bearing on the formation of favorable public opinion about Canada in the country to which they go. So much for Canadian.

Now for Trade. They are Trade Commissioners in a very wide sense. The impression of integrity and ability that they convey to public men and officials, business men and the general public in their territory can easily be of striking importance to the development of the trade of Canada. Various general duties are imposed on them in addition to the public side of their activities. Depending on the personality and general agreeableness of the man himself, a Canadian Trade Commissioner may be called upon to advise with the government officers of other countries with respect to impending changes in the Customs tariff or import regulations of the country to which he is allotted. He may be called upon by courtesy to advise with respect to Canadian experience in new and untried questions coming up in his territory. He is called upon to protect the rights and privileges of Canadian citizens and interests abroad. He must have the experience and ability to select from a mass of statistical information, compiled in his territory, the essential factors that will convey to Canadian readers a correct and adequate picture of the economic conditions in export markets. Or if the economic information is not sufficiently adequate, he must be able to devise satisfactory alternative methods of supplying this general need.

He is required to be reasonably well informed respecting the production and commercial conditions surrounding many classes of individual businesses in order that he may be of practical service to individual Canadian exporters whose definite enquiries have been encouraged by the policy of the Department of Trade and Commerce. "Trade" is a very concrete and practical thing. A title which includes that word can fairly be expected to apply to a man, who besides having characteristics that will enable him to take a leading part in the community in which he lives on behalf of Canada, can and will devote the major portion of his time to the concrete development of trade from Canada.

We speak loosely about Canada's export trade. It is Canada's, in the broad sense. Yet our trade, after all, is only the sum of all the individual transactions that take place between Canadian exporters and importers in other countries aided by the intelligent and devoted work of the Department of Trade and Commerce, other Government Departments, the Government as a whole. The Trade Commissioners are the dynamos that transmit the power back into Canada again by concerning themselves closely with the extension of intelligent and well-directed aid in the establishment of agencies and other useful means of initiating and increasing the sum total of individual transactions between Canadian exporters and importers abroad.

The next word is Commissioner. The most usual mental association that the man on the street has with a commission is a percentage or payment proceeding from the sale of goods. Very different is the Commission or Commissioner in the title Canadian Trade Commissioner. Here, of course, it is used in the sense that he is a person to whom something is committed. What is committed to the Trade Commissioners? There are certain duties committed to them by the Government who appoint them. Some of these have already been touched on. The commercial good name of Canada is committed to them for safe-keeping in other countries. It is, then, clearly indicated that education, character, ability and experience of a high type is required if the duties of the office are to be carried out to the full satisfaction of the Government and of the business community. Such high requirements when fulfilled, as they very frequently are, in the Service as at present constituted, should deserve the fullest consideration of the Minister and of the Government in the way of honorable position, co-operative support, emolument, living and travelling allowances to enable them effectively to search their fields to the uttermost, and proper provision for retiring allowances after long and successful service. Any one entering the Trade Commissioner Service and doing really effective work in it makes certain sacrifices. He divorces himself from his Canadian home and associates. A man who can make a real success of a Trade Commissioner's office would probably also by devoting the same energy and intelligence in private employment reach a position of financial comfort unattainable in Government service, yet by devoting himself conscientiously and strictly to his duties he may partially unfit himself in later years for purely private enterprise. They are required to let the honor of a Government position take the place to a certain extent of increased financial return. It is therefore important that the conditions under which they work should be maintained at a continuously high level.

The experience to Canadian exporters, both from a general and from an individual point of view, with the Canadian Trade Commissioner Service and the growth and development of our export trade over a course of years with many countries due at least partially to the direct and indirect services of the Canadian Trade Commissioners, has been so generally satisfactory that it seems logical to expect that a further extension of this branch of the service on an improved basis will result in a continued increase in Canada's export trade, a consummation much to be desired.

Through frequent use of the personnel of the Service at Ottawa, and at their various posts throughout the world, many Canadian manufacturers have benefited greatly through the information received and through sound connections which the Trade Commissioners have assisted in obtaining.

Special reports covering their respective territories on particular commodities will be prepared by the Trade Commissioners either on application to Ottawa or direct to the officers of Trade Commissioners on page 159 of this section. In order to enable the Trade Commissioners intelligently to answer requests, it is essential that manufacturers should outline their merchandising proposition in all its aspects fully in their first letter. All communications of this nature received by the Commercial Intelligence Service are held as confidential and the information only used without divulging its source to obtain concrete and definite answers to the enquiries made.

The Commercial Intelligence Department of the Canadian Manufacturers Association co-operates fully and cordially with the Department of Trade and Commerce and is prepared to render any service within its power for the extension of Canada's Export Trade.

—The Editor.

Analysis of Canada's Trade

These figures show an increase in all factors with the exception of wholesale commodity prices as between the years 1924-1928 and increases in all but export trade and wholesale commodity prices as between the eight month periods of 1928 and 1929. The decrease in exports was probably mainly due to reduced shipments of wheat and other grains to world markets during the past summer and the decrease in wholesale prices probably reflects to some extent the reduced cost of living in Canada.

Canada's growth as an exporting nation since immediate pre-war years reflects the Dominion's growing importance as a manufacturing country. Articles which have been fully or partly manufactured in Canadian factories comprise approximately two-thirds of the total increase in the Dominion's export trade from pre-war days. Whereas in 1914 raw materials comprised 63.2 per cent. of Canada's exports the percentage has been reduced to 47.2 per cent. in the fiscal year ended March, 1928, the latest figures available. Furthermore, in 1914 Canada's raw exports included approximately forty per cent. of pulpwood, ores and other natural resources other than wheat and other agricultural products for manufacturing in other countries. In 1928 this percentage had been reduced to twenty-eight per cent.

Canada's total foreign trade during the fiscal year ended March 31, 1929 amounted to $2,654,-452,000 compared with a similar trade in 1928 of $2,359,412,000 and in 1927 of $2,298,466,000; the increase over the year 1928 amounting to $295,040,000 or 12.5 per cent. and over 1927 to $355,986,000 or 15.1 per cent. Imports as well as exports show an improvement over the years 1928 and 1927. During 1929 imports amounted to $1,265,679,000 compared with an import trade in 1928 of $1,108,-956,000 and in 1927 of $1,030,893,000; the increase in 1929 over 1928 amounting to $156,723,000 or 14.1 per cent. and over 1927 of $234,786,000 or 22.7 per cent. In the first eight months of the calendar year 1929 imports amounted to $890,242,795 as compared with $806,323,475 in the corresponding period of 1928, an increase of $83,919,320 or 10.4 per cent. Total exports during the fiscal year 1929 were valued at $1,388,773,000 compared with a similar trade in 1928 valued at $1,250,456,000 and in 1927 at $1,267,573,000; the increase over the year 1928 being $138,317,000 or 11.1 per cent. and over 1927 $121,200,000 or 9.6 per cent. For the first eight months of the calendar year 1929 total exports amounted to $793,774,180 as compared with $814,982,370, in the corresponding period of 1928, a decrease of $21,208,190 or 2.6 per cent. Canada's domestic exports in the fiscal year 1929 were valued at $1,363,587,000, in 1928 at $1,228,208,000, and in 1927 at $1,252,158,000; the increase in 1929 over 1928 amounting to $135,379,000 or 11.0 per cent. and over 1927 to $111,429,000 or 9.0 per cent.

The average level in prices has changed only moderately during the past four or five years. On the other hand a comparison with pre-war years and with the period during and immediately following the war shows that changes in the level of prices have materially affected the comparability of trade statistics. Figures compiled for each fiscal year, 1921 to 1928, based on 1914 average import and export values, show that Canada's import trade in 1928, revalued at 1914 average import values, was $97,907,000 greater than for the high record year of 1927, while the export trade of 1928, revalued at 1914 average export values, was only $27,766,000 less than for the year 1926.

Canada's Position in International Trade

Canada today occupies fifth place in exports and imports among the leading trading countries of the world being exceeded in value of exports and imports by the United Kingdom, the United States, Germany and France. In 1913 Canada occupied tenth place among exporting nations and has since displaced the Netherlands, British India, Belgium, Italy and Argentina. In pre-war days the United Kingdom occupied first position as an exporting nation and the United States came second. Today the United States leads all nations with the United Kingdom taking second place. In import trade, Canada in 1913 occupied eighth place and has since displaced the Netherlands, Belgium and Italy. Germany then occupied second place and the United States third. Today the United States comes second and Germany third, with the United Kingdom and France still retaining their respective positions in first and fourth places.

In aggregate trade, Canada in 1913 was in ninth position, but in 1928, as in 1926 and 1927, she was in fifth position, being exceeded by the United States, the United Kingdom, Germany and France. In 1913, in aggregate trade, the United Kingdom was in first position, Germany in second and the United States in third, but in 1928, the United States had moved into first position, the United Kingdom into second and Germany into third, while France was in fourth position in 1928 and in 1913.

Canada has also made remarkable progress in proportionate increase in trade, both in amount and percentage, from 1913 to 1928. In the amount of increase in imports she occupied fifth position, being exceeded by the United States, the United Kingdom, Germany and Japan; in exports, third place, being exceeded by the United States and the United Kingdom; and in aggregate trade, third position, being exceeded by the United States and the United Kingdom. In percentage of increase in trade from 1913 to 1928, Canada occupied eighth place in imports, first place in exports, and second place in aggregate trade, being exceeded by Japan.

In trade per capita, Canada has made a very creditable showing since 1913. In that year she occupied fifth place in imports per capita and in 1928 she occupied fifth place, being exceeded by New Zealand, the Netherlands, Switzerland and Denmark. In exports per capita Canada in 1913 occupied seventh place, but in 1928 she had advanced to second place, being exceeded by New Zealand. In aggregate trade per capita Canada in 1913 was in sixth place among the leading commercial nations of the world, but in 1928 she had moved up to second place, New Zealand being in first place as in 1926 and 1927. In 1928 the aggregate trade of New Zealand per capita amounted to $330.64, imports amounting to $148.07 and exports to $182.57; while that for Canada amounted to $263.78, imports totalling $124.03 and exports $139.75.

Canada has risen in fifteen years from seventeenth position to third position among the principal trading countries of the world with regard to visible trade balance. In 1913 Canada occupied seventeenth position with an unfavourable visible trade balance amounting to $222,900,000 or $29.61 per capita, but in 1928 she was in third position, with a favourable trade balance of $151,800,000 or $15.72 per capita. In 1928 as in 1913, the United States was in first place and British India in second place in amount of favourable trade balances. In 1928 Canada occupied second place in favourable trade balance per capita, New Zealand being in first place and Argentina in third place. In that year, among the leading commercial nations of the world six had a favourable trade balance, nine in 1927, six in 1926, eight in 1924 and 1925, six in 1923 and only three in 1913.

When the British Preferential Tariff was enacted, in 1897, Canada's imports from the United Kingdom amounted to only $29,401,000 as compared with imports in 1873 valued at $67,997,000. From 1873 to 1897 imports from the United Kingdom decreased $38,596,000 or 56.7 per cent. while from 1897 to 1929 they increased $164,620,000 or 559.9 per cent. The British Preferential Tariff was no doubt largely responsible for the increase in imports, not only from the United Kingdom but also from other parts of the Empire.

Trade treaties and agreements negotiated with British and Foreign countries have also had the effect of stimulating Canada's trade. In the fiscal year 1914 imports from the British Empire, except the United Kingdom, amounted to $22,456,000, in 1922 to $31,974,000 and in 1929 they had increased to $63,378,000, while imports from foreign countries, except the United States, amounted to $68,365,000 in 1914, $82,737,000 in 1922 and in 1929 they had increased to $140,224,000. Exports, however, during the same years show a greater advance. In 1914 exports to the British Empire, except the United Kingdom, were valued at $23,388,000, in 1922 at $46,474,000 and in 1929 at $106,296,000 while exports to foreign countries other than the United States increased from $29,573,000 in 1914, to $101,816,627 in 1922 and $327,393,000 in 1929.

RELATION OF RAW, MANUFACTURED AND SEMI-MANUFACTURED PRODUCTS ENTERING INTO CANADIAN TRADE

The character of the goods which make up its import and export trade very often indicates the industrial development of a country. Canada, for some years after Confederation, was not engaged in manufacturing to any extent and subsequently her imports consisted largely of manufactured products while her exports were chiefly raw materials and semi-manufactured goods. Since 1900, however, there has been a gradual increase in the amount of raw materials and semi-manufactured products imported for the industries of the Dominion, while there has been a marked increase in the exports of those products which have undergone some process of manufacture. Canada, during the present century, has been passing through much the same stages of development in her economic life as did the United States from 1870 to 1900.

From 1900 to 1928 imports of manufactured products into Canada increased from $111,400,000 to $718,800,000 or 545.24 per cent., while similar imports into the United States increased from $341,500,000 to $1,312,300,000 or 284.27 per cent.; whereas exports of manufactured products from Canada, from 1900 to 1928, increased from $68,900,000 to $458,800,000 or 565.87 per cent. while exports of similar products from the United States increased from $666,300,000 to $2,517,700,000 or 277.71 per cent. While Canada has not made as rapid a development in this respect as the United States, (i.e., in increasing exports of manufactured products and curtailing imports, while curtailing exports of raw materials but increasing imports), she has made some progress in this respect since 1910, though the tendency for the past three years was in the opposite direction as the statistics in the following table show:

With reference to the relation between the trade in raw and manufactured products with the British Empire and foreign countries, analysis of the following table shows that the bulk of the imports into Canada from the United Kingdom consists of manufactured products and from other countries in the British Empire in partly manufactured condition. Imports from foreign countries, including the United States, are mainly in a fully or partly manufactured state. The bulk of Canada's exports to the United Kingdom consists of wheat and other grains classified as raw materials while exports to the remainder of the British Empire consists mainly of manufactured products. Two-thirds of Canada's exports to the United States have passed through some process of manufacture while fifty per cent. of Canada's exports to other foreign countries consists of raw materials, reflecting the dominion's increasing direct exports of grains and other agricultural products to these countries.

Canada as a Producer and Exporter of Staples

Wheat Exports.—The rapid increase in the production of wheat in the Prairie Provinces during the past fifteen years or so and the practical elimination of Russia, Roumania and other wheat producing countries of Europe as leading factors in the grain trade, have had the effect of establishing Canada in second place as a wheat producing country, the first place being held by the United States. With reference to exports of wheat, Canada, for the calendar year 1928, occupied first place with an export of 365,429,000 bushels, Argentina being second with 186,968,000 bushels and the United States third with 96,290,000 bushels. Canada's exports of wheat for the past seven years, as also for the year 1913, have exceeded those of the United States. The Dominion's exports of wheat for the fiscal year 1900 amounted to only 16,845,000 bushels; in 1910 they totalled 49,741,000 bushels; in 1920 77,978,000 bushels; while for the fiscal year ended March 31, 1929, they had reached the magnificent amount of 370,460,000 bushels. It will be noted by reference to the statistics in the following table showing "Exports of Wheat from Principal Wheat Producing Countries of the World" that even in 1913 Canada occupied first place as a wheat exporting country, with an export of 129,950,000 bushels, Russia being in second place with an export of 121,953,000 bushels, Argentina in third place with 103,300,000 bushels, and the United States in fourth place with 99,509,000 bushels. In 1929 the order had been changed considerably, Canada, as in 1913, was in first place, Argentina in second, the United States in third and Australia in fourth place. Wheat occupies first place among Canada's exports.

Wheat Flour Exports. Canada ranks second among the countries of the world as a wheat-flour exporting country, the first place being occupied by the United States. Canada's exports of wheat-flour for the fiscal year 1900 amounted to only 768,000 barrels; ten years later they totalled 3,064,000 barrels; in 1920 they amounted to 8,863,000 barrels; while for the last fiscal year (1929) they amounted to 11,406,000 barrels. It will be observed from the statistics in the following table showing "Exports of Wheat-Flour from Principal Flour-Producing Countries of the World" that in 1929 Canada was in second place with an export of 10,737,000 barrels, the United States being in first place with an export of 11,848,000 barrels; Australia in third place with 4,879,000 barrels; Hungary in fourth place with 2,209,000 barrels; and Argentina in fifth place with 1,916,000 barrels. The exports of flour from the United States in 1928 were 430,000 barrels less than in 1913, while the exports from Canada in 1928 were 5,843,000 barrels greater than in 1913, and from Australia 2,617,000 barrels greater. From 1927 to 1928 Canada's exports of wheat flour increased from 9,263,000 to 10,737,000 barrels, while those from the United States decreased from 12,826,000 to 11,848,000 barrels.

Newsprint Paper Exports.—Canada led the world as a producer of newsprint paper during the calendar year, 1928, with an output of 4,762,000,000 pounds; the United States was second with 2,830,000,000 pounds; the United Kingdom third with 1,260,000,000 pounds and Germany fourth with 1,200,000,000 pounds. The production of newsprint paper for the world in 1928 was estimated at not far from 13,500,000,000 pounds, of which North America supplied 60 per cent., and Canada alone about 35 per cent. The estimated production of newsprint paper for sixteen of the leading paper producing countries of the world in 1928, totalling 13,221,000,000 pounds, was as follows:

During the fiscal year 1890 Canada's total exports of paper were valued at only $122; in 1900 they amounted to $29,741; while in 1910 the exports of printing paper alone were valued at $2,612,000. Exports of newsprint paper from Canada for the fiscal year 1920 amounted to 1,427,251,000 pounds, value $53,204,000, while for 1929 they amounted to 4,526,458,000 pounds, value $142,343,000. The Dominion's exports of newsprint paper rank second in importance, wheat being in the first place.

In 1928 Canada occupied first position by a wide margin among the world's chief exporters of newsprint paper, her exports being over ten times as great as those for Newfoundland, her next competitor. From the statistics in the following table it will be noted that, even in 1913, Canada led the world as an exporter of newsprint paper, Norway being in second place, the United Kingdom in third place and Finland in fourth place. In 1928 the total quantity of newsprint paper exported by the thirteen leading exporting countries was 6,896,475,000 pounds of which Canada contributed 4,413,175,000 pounds or 63.9 per cent. In 1927 the total quantity exported by these thirteen countries was 6,220,947,000 of which Canada contributed 3,763,731,000 or 60.5 per cent. Canada's exports of newsprint paper, therefore, exceeded the exports of the other twelve leading countries combined by 1,929,875,000 pounds in 1928 and 1,306,515,000 pounds in 1927.

Wood Pulp Exports.—Canada's great advance as a newsprint paper producer and exporter since the opening of the present century, has been based on the great expansion of her wood pulp industry. Canada's exports of wood pulp during the fiscal year 1890 were valued at only $168,000 and in 1900 at $1,816,000. In the fiscal year 1929 the Dominion's exports of wood pulp amounted to 1,695,016,000 pounds, valued at $44,896,000. In the calendar year, 1928, Canada occupied third position among the world's exporters of wood pulp, the first place being held by Sweden and the second by Norway. In exports of chemical pulp in 1928 Canada occupied second place, the first place being held by Sweden, by a wide margin, and third place by Finland. With regard to exports of mechanical pulp, Canada occupied fourth place in 1928, the first, second and third places being held by Norway, Sweden and Finland.

Trade Balances

On March 31, 1921, the visible trade balance was unfavourable to Canada to the amount of $29,730,000, but since then, as well as during the war and the post-bellum boom, it has been favourable. During the past four years there has been a marked decline in the favourable trade balance, until on March 31, 1929, it was only $123,094,000 as compared with $401,371,000 in 1926. This decline does not indicate a curtailment in industrial activities, as there has been a marked development in many lines of industry during the past few years. The phenomenon is due to Canada's increased purchasing power.

There have been marked changes in the trade balances with the leading commercial countries of the world. In 1914 Canada had a favourable trade balance with Europe of $65,032,000, which had increased to $358,698,000 in 1929, while the number of countries in Europe with which she had a favourable balance increased from seven to eighteen.

Trade by Continents.—Europe continues to be Canada's best customer while most of the Dominion's imports were secured from the North American continent. During the fiscal year 1929, the continents of Europe and North America took 86.9 per cent. of Canada's total exports as compared with 89.1 per cent. in 1928 and 90.7 per cent. in 1925. The proportion of Canadian products shipped to Europe in 1929 was 47.1 per cent. compared with 46.9 per cent. in 1928 and 47.9 per cent. in 1925; while the proportion exported to North America in 1929 was 39.8 per cent. compared with 42.2 per cent. and 42.8 per cent. in 1928 and 1925 respectively. From 1925 to 1929 the proportion of Canada's exports to the United Kingdom decreased from 37.0 to 31.5 per cent. while the proportion to the United States decreased from 39.1 per cent. to 36.7 per cent.

Canada purchased more goods from every continent in 1929 than in the years 1925 and 1928 except in the cases of Africa and South America, purchases from South America being larger in 1928, while those from Africa were greater in 1927 as well as in 1928. Canada sold more goods to every continent in 1929, except in the cases of Europe and South America, the sales to Europe being larger in 1926 and those to South America larger in 1927.

Many changes have taken place in recent years in the chief markets to which Canada ships her products. The United States was Canada's best customer in 1929, as in 1928 and 1927, though she occupied second place in 1926: while the United Kingdom occupied first place in 1926 and second place in the last three fiscal years. Of the other leading markets for Canadian products, Germany occupied third place in 1927, 1928 and 1929, but fourth place in 1926; while the Netherlands was in fourth position in 1928 and 1929, but in fifth position in 1927 and sixth in 1926. Japan was in third place in 1926, moved down to fourth place in 1927, and up to fifth place in 1928 and 1929; while Belgium was in seventh position during the years 1926 and 1927, but advanced to sixth position in 1928 and 1929. The Dominion's exports to China have changed materially during the past four years, due no doubt to the unsettled conditions of the country. In 1926 China occupied fifth position, in 1927 she moved down to eleventh position, in 1928 she was in ninth position and in 1929 she had advanced to seventh position. In 1929 Italy, Australia, New Zealand and France occupied eighth, ninth, tenth and eleventh places, respectively, though in 1928 Italy was in seventh place, Australia in eighth, New Zealand in eleventh and France in fourteenth, while Argentina was in twelfth position during each of the past four fiscal years.

Agriculture

The farmer in 1928, for the fourth year in succession, reaped a splendid harvest. It is computed that in the years 1925, 1926, 1927 and 1928 the total value of Canada's principal field crops amounted to approximately four and a half billion dollars. This amount, drawn from the soil, has put the farmer squarely upon his feet and provided large sums for expansion which is everywhere apparent.

The following figures, prepared by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, show the increasing prosperity of the Canadian Farmer. These show that Canada's gross agricultural wealth in the last six years has increased 19 per cent.

1922.....	$6,743,685,000
1928.....	8,027,301,000

Increase.....	$1,283,616,000

and her gross agricultural revenue has increased 18.8 per cent.

1922.....	$1,456,365,000
1928.....	1,730,304,000

Increase.....	$ 273,939,000
---------------	----------------

An analysis of some of the products which go to make up this revenue show:—

	1922	1928	Increase % Decrease %
Field Crops.....	$962,293,000	$1,099,781,000	14.3
Dairy Produce.....	215,576,000	250,000,000	16.0
Farm Animals.....	140,484,000	197,880,000	41.0
Poultry & Eggs.....	62,850,000	106,654,000	69.7
Tobacco.....	4,548,000	6,834,000	51.1
Fur Farms.....	1,538,000	5,000,000	233.3
Wool.....	3,180,000	5,099,000	63.3
Honey.....		2,785,000
Fruits and Vegetables.....	55,855,000	47,220,000	19.0

By the above table it will be seen that Dairy Produce is the second most important class of agricultural products. While most of the butter produced is consumed in Canada, cheese constitutes an important item in the Dominion's exports, amounting to over $25,000,000 in the last fiscal year.

The Dairy Industry Act requires that all butter and cheese before being exported must be graded by the official Government graders and the grade thus assigned to each parcel must be marked or stamped on every package. Each package of butter and cheese must also bear the Registered Number of the factory in which it was made. For butter packages the law prescribes a uniform and standard design for branding. This design includes the information that the butter is of Canadian origin and also gives the province in which it is manufactured together with the churning number and the date of manufacture.

The Act which provides for the grading of dairy produce in Canada became effective on April 1, 1923. Since that date there has been very marked improvement in the quality of Canadian cheese and butter. Canadian cheese stands absolutely at the top of the market and brings a premium over any other cheese of the same type imported into the United Kingdom.

While production of fruits and vegetables show a downward trend as regards total value, an export market of considerable importance in these commodities is being developed, amounting to over $13,217,000 in 1928. The apple is the principal fruit grown, and approximately 35 per cent. of the total commercial crop was exported in 1928, amounting to 992,277 barrels. Exports of potatoes are next in importance and, while only slightly in excess of seven per cent. of the estimated crop was exported, it amounted to 6,308,917 bushels. Table turnips are also of importance, the quantity exported being 2,921,152 bushels. With respect to canned and preserved fruits and vegetables the quantity exported exceeded 24,500,000 pounds weight valued at $2,476,082.

To maintain the quality of these products on a uniform basis and at a level suitable to the requirements of the export market, the principal fresh fruits and vegetables are required to be graded in accordance with Dominion standards of quality and to ensure such standards, all export shipments of apples, pears and plums, except those originating in the Province of Nova Scotia, are required to be inspected and a certificate stating grade and condition issued prior to shipment. All potatoes originating in the Provinces of New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island are required to be graded and inspected, and a certificate issued prior to product moving from point of origin. In the Province of British Columbia all shipments of vegetables are subject to similar regulations.

With respect to any province or product to which such regulations do not apply all export shipments may be inspected and an inspection certificate issued on arrangement between shipper and buyer whereby, where credit is established to purchase fruits and vegetables, payment may not be made unless the product complies with the standard under which it has been purchased.

With respect to canned fruits and vegetables the processing takes place in sanitary packing establishments subject to Government supervision and the products graded according to specific standards of quality and packed in standard containers. All shipments for export are inspected and an export permit issued providing the establishment complies with Government regulations.

The estimated commercial production of the principal fresh fruits and vegetables for the year 1929 is as follows:

Apples.....	11,115,000 bushels
Pears.....	351,770 "
Peaches.....	680,400 "
Plums.....
Fresh Prunes }.....	220,110 "
Potatoes.....	42,395,000 Cwt.
Onions.....	539,900 "

Fisheries

Canadian fishing grounds, which are perhaps the most extensive in the world, produced fish in 1928 with a marketed value of $55,050,973, an increase of $5,927,364 or 12 per cent. over 1927. With the exception of 1918 and 1919 when the inflated prices of the war era prevailed, the value of the 1928 production has only once been exceeded—in 1926 when unusually favourable weather conditions greatly aided the fishermen. The marketed value of the Sea Fisheries production in 1928 was $46,669,222, an increase of $5,121,525 over 1927, and the value of the Inland Fisheries production was $8,381,751, an increase of $805,839. The value of the fishing industry to Canada is demonstrated by the fact that it represents a capital investment of over fifty-eight million dollars, gives employment to over seventy-eight thousand persons and its exports go to some 100 foreign countries.

From the standpoint of marketed returns the salmon fishery was first in importance in 1928 with a value of $17,867,053, a gain of over three million dollars over 1927. The cod fishery was second in importance with a production valued at $6,285,777 and the lobster fishery was third with $5,183,988.

Export business in fish and fish products showed substantial increase, reaching $38,096,245 as compared with $34,814,448 in 1927. The largest export trade was in canned and preserved fish, the exports in this class having a value of over $13,500,000. Canned salmon exports were valued at more than $9,200,000 and exports of canned lobsters at over $3,100,000. Exports of dried, salted, smoked and pickled fish had a value of over $10,500,000. Foreign sales of fresh and frozen fish were more than $10,900,000. The United States was the largest buyer of Canadian fish products, with the United Kingdom second. Sales of dry-salted herring accounted for over $2,000,000 of the export business, by far the greater part of the exportation being shipped to China or destined for China. The sales of dried fish were chiefly to the British West Indies, Cuba, Porto Rico, Italy, and the United States.

On the Atlantic Coast a noteworthy trend is toward the increasing marketing of fresh and fresh frozen fish, a trend that is being stimulated by the "Rapid-Freezing" process. By this process fresh fish are frozen in such a way that they may be successfully kept for many weeks, if properly stored, and yet reach the consumer with all their juices retained and tissues unimpaired, and in such condition that they cannot be told from fish just taken from the water. The application of this process in the Canadian fisheries means that fresh fish may be shipped long distances, not only to points in Canada where fresh fish has not hitherto been available to the consumer but also to export markets where an increasing business is expected to be done.

Development of this process in Canada has been carried out by the Atlantic Fisheries Experimental Station of the Biological Board at Halifax.

Expansion of the production of fish meals and oil continue to be a feature of the Canadian fishing industry. The expansion is chiefly in British Columbia where there is now very large production, mainly from pilchards. Between April 1st and December 31st, 1928, over 16,730 tons of fish meal were exported from Canada, upwards of two-thirds of it to the United States and the remainder to Germany and the Netherlands. Medicinal Cod liver oil, cod oil, glue, and fertilizer are also produced at Canadian fish reduction works. In the Maritime Provinces there has recently been successful experimental production of meal from lobster bodies and shells.

Fur Trade

From earliest times the Fur Trade has played an important part in Canada's economic development. The steady development of silver and black fox farming as well as the breeding in captivity of other fur-bearing animals has increased its value, and today this trade is as valuable as ever.

During the Great War, the important fur market changed from London to the United States. Of the $5,100,000 worth of undressed furs exported to England and the United States in 1914, England received $3,000,000; in 1919, out of $13,300,000 worth, only $3,700,000 went to England. However, since 1919 the proportion taken by the English market has again increased, the figures for the twelve months ending June 30th, 1928, showing that of the undressed furs exported $10,053,674 worth went to England and $12,834,815 worth to the United States. At the close of the war, Montreal took a position as an international fur market, holding the first Canadian fur auction sales in 1920 when 949,565 pelts valued at $5,057,114 were disposed of. At the auctions sales held in Montreal in 1928 there were 1,859,123 pelts sold for $8,833,818. Sales are also held at Winnipeg and Edmonton. A growing industry is that of the dressing and dyeing of furs. In 1927 the number of fur skins treated in Canadian plants was 6,844,309.

Fur Production

Commencing with 1881 records of the value of production of raw furs in Canada were obtained in the decennial censuses. In that year the value of pelts is shown to have been $987,555 and in 1910 to have been $1,927,550. In 1920 the Dominion Bureau of Statistics commenced the annual collection of returns from fur traders, and for the season 1919-20 the value of pelts purchased from trappers and fur farmers is shown to have been $21,387,005. This figure should not be taken as representative of the value of an average year's production as abnormally high prices were paid for pelts during the early part of this season.

For 1920-21 the total fur production of Canada was valued at $10,151,594, for 1921-22 at $17,438,867, for 1922-23 at $16,761,567; for 1923-24 at $15,643,817; for 1924-25 at $15,441,554; for 1925-26 at $15,072,244; for 1926-27 at $18,864,126, and for 1927-28 at $18,758,177.

Of fur-bearing wild animals in Canada, the fox has proved to be the most suited for domestication, although other kinds of fur bearers are being raised with ever-increasing success, including mink, raccoon, skunk, marten, fisher, muskrat, beaver, karakul sheep and chinchilla rabbit. The successful breeding of the fox on fur farms came at a period of rising prices after 1890 with the introduction of woven wire fencing.

The following table gives the value of pelts purchased by traders from trappers and fur farmers, by province, for the years ended June 30, 1927 and 1928:—

Forest Resources

The area covered by existing forests is approximately 1,151,454 square miles. Of this area about 200,000 square miles or 17.3 per cent. carries mature, merchantable timber, 111,234 square miles or 9.6 per cent. carries immature but nevertheless merchantable timber and 554,646 square miles or 48.2 per cent. carries young growth which will eventually produce merchantable timber. The remainder consists of national parks and land suitable for agriculture.

The following table gives an estimate of the total stand of timber of merchantable size by regions:

Exports of Wood, Wood Products and Paper in the fiscal year, 1929, totalled $288,621,745 as compared with $284,543,396 in 1928. Exports of Paper, chiefly newsprint, increased from $134,985,777 to $148,394,868; Books and Printed Matter increased from $1,138,747 to $1,385,080; while unmanufactured wood (principally laths, planks, boards and shingles) decreased from $99,370,516 to $91,675,675; and manufactured wood (mainly wood pulp) from $49,048,356 to $47,166,122.

Water Power

The water area of Canada is officially estimated at 142,674 square miles, which is larger than the fresh water area of any other country in the world. As these areas are for the most part above sea level, water power is one of Canada's most important natural resources and its development in recent years has contributed materially to swell the volume of Canadian productions, as every industrial centre throughout the Dominion is served with hydro-electric energy.

The following table shows the provincial distribution of available and developed power in Canada, by provinces, Jan. 1st, 1929.

Available and Developed Water Power in Canada, by Provinces, Jan. 1, 1929

There are 20 million h.p. at ordinary minimum flow (i.e. through the year) rising to over 33 million for at least six months. Storage basins for regulating the flow would permit of turbine installation of about 43 million. In other words the present turbine installation represents slightly under 12½% of the present recorded water power resources.

Compared with other countries Canada stands second only to the United States in turbine horse power installation. The Dominion also stands second in turbine horse power installation per 1,000 of population, Norway alone being higher. On a per capita basis, Canada has nearly 5 times the installation of the United States, with over 65% of all homes in Canada using electricity for lighting and other purposes.

In 1927 there were 629 central electric stations generating over 14½ billion kilowatt hours with a capital investment of over $867,000,000, more than double that of 1917 which was $356,000,000.

The following table gives the distribution of developed water power:

1 includes only hydro-electric stations which develop power for sale. 2 includes only water power actually developed by pulp and paper companies. In addition to this total pulp and paper companies purchase from the hydro power central electric stations totalled in column 1 about 789,500 h.p. The total hydro power utilized in the pulp and paper industry is therefore about 1,362,500 h.p. 3 includes only water power actually developed in connection with industries other than the central electric station and pulp and paper industries. These industries also purchase power from the central electric stations totalled in column 1.

Minerals

Mining ranks third among Canada's primary industries, with mineral products becoming more and more a governing factor in commerce and industry. During the last year Canada held the following place in world mineral production. First in nickel, first in asbestos, first in cobalt, third in gold, third in silver, fourth in lead, fourth in copper, and sixth in zinc. The premier position in the production of nickel, asbestos and cobalt is not challenged, while Canada in the next few years will assume greater world's importance in the production of gold, copper, lead and zinc. During the last two years copper production increased so that Canada obtained fourth place instead of fifth as previously. South Africa, the United States and Canada are in that order the great gold-producing countries, and with increased Canadian yields and decreases in the United States, Canada will soon be in second place.

Ontario and British Columbia are the great mineral producing provinces of the Dominion, as in 1928 the former produced 36.22 per cent. of the total and the latter 23.45. Nova Scotia was responsible for 11.10, Alberta for 11.83 and Quebec for 13.47. With the mineral development in progress in the northern territory of Quebec, Manitoba and Saskatchewan, these provinces will soon be more important factors in the Dominion's production.

The production of all metals except arsenic, silver, and platinum was greater in the first half of 1929 than in the corresponding period in 1928. Mineral production (exclusive of structural materials and clay products which are only tabulated yearly) for the first half of 1929 was $123,702,334 as compared with $105,632,571 for the first six months of 1928.

In order of total values the leading mineral products in the first half of 1928 and 1929 were as follows:

		1928	1929
Coal.....	Tons	8,248,500	8,776,599

	$	1,421,457	1,270,541

In addition to these main products over fifty other minerals were secured in commercial quantities during the year. Canada's mineral resources in fact comprise almost every variety of minerals.

Following the establishment of a new high record for mineral production in Canada in 1928, when the total output from all the mining industries reached a value of $274,989,487, the fact that many of the principal commodities reached higher totals in the first half of 1929 than were recorded during the first half of 1928, points to a continuance of prosperity in the mining industry, and forecasts the possibility of new records being established when the totals for the calendar year, 1929, are compiled. In almost every field notable advances in production have been made. There were a few holdbacks during the first half of 1929, but these have been overshadowed by the spectacular advances in other sections of the industry.

Railways

Railway traffic reflects business conditions and is a valuable index of the state of a nation's commerce. In Canada this index speaks eloquently of the prosperity of the Dominion at the present time since the index number for carloadings compiled by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics shows that there has been a steady upward trend since 1924 and that a new high level was reached in 1928.

The light grain crop in the western provinces, however, is affecting the car loadings for 1929 and although the heavy loading during the first half of the year produced an increase over the record made in 1928, there has been a lighter movement in western Canada since the second week in July which is cutting down the lead made earlier in the year.

During 1928 considerable railway construction was under way, 483 miles were opened for operation, 631 miles were completed but not opened at the end of the year, and 757 miles were under contract which does not include the Hudson Bay Railway which was being rehabilitated and completed through to Churchill. The expenditures on additions and betterments during the year amounted to $78,543,774. The total mileage operated on December 31, 1928 was 41,024, a net increase of 452 miles during the year.

Gross revenues amounted to $563,732,260, an increase of $64,668,053 and after deducting operating expenses, net operating revenues amounted to $121,030,990, which was by far the largest ever earned by Canadian railways.

The freight traffic amounting to 118,652,969 tons and over 41.6 billion ton miles was the heaviest handled, exceeding the record made in 1927 by 19 per cent. Passenger traffic showed a decrease in the number of passengers carried, but an increase in the passenger miles, which was exceeded by only the passenger miles made in 1918-1919 and 1920. It was the long haul traffic, however, which increased; the short haul traffic has been much reduced by the public and private motor vehicle.

The number of persons employed by the railways amounted to 187,710 and the total pay roll for the year was $287,775,315.

Employment

Employment is probably one of the best and most easily comprehended indices of industrial conditions from the physical point of view. The Dominion Bureau of Statistics has, during the past year, changed its index figure of "100" from 1900 (the more or less boom year of production) to the year 1926 permitting a more accurate comparison of employment. During the current year, the employment index number reached its highest level of 127.8 as compared with a high of 119.3 in 1927. Calculated on an aggregate employment for the first eight months of 1929, the index figure stood at the new high of 117.0 compared with 108.6 for the corresponding period of 1928.

This encouraging rise is not the result of a boom in any one industry, but reflects general prosperity, in that the increase in the total number of workers employed, is the result of increased activity in logging, mining, transportation, construction, service, trade and manufacturing.

The labour situation remains satisfactory there having been no serious strikes and the cost of living remaining steady. With an industrial organization, sufficiently diversified to absorb workers the year around, and with living conditions in Canada equal if not superior to those obtaining anywhere in the world, there should be employment for a limited number of new workers each year.

Banking

The eleven Canadian Chartered banks have, according to figures at the end of August last, 4,015 branches in Canada, one for approximately every 2,400 inhabitants, and 186 in foreign countries. The combination of branch bank system with the power of note issue furnishes a remarkably flexible banking machinery, well suited to the needs of a sparsely populated and wide-spread country.

By the British North America Act the right to legislate respecting "Banking, Incorporation of Banks and the issue of Paper Money" was assigned exclusively to the Dominion Parliament. Banks are therefore incorporated by special Act of Parliament and governed by the Bank Act which is subject to decennial revision. Banks are empowered to issue notes; to open branches; deal in coin and bullion; deal in and loan money upon bills of exchange, government, municipal and general public securities and, subject to the express provisions of the Bank Act, to loan upon security of certain commodities as well as against standing timber. Their further general authority is "to engage in and carry on such business generally as appertains to the business of banking."

In the event of a bank suspending payment its notes in circulation are the first charge upon the assets. They are further secured by the Bank Circulation Redemption Fund held by the Dominion Government. Since the inauguration of this fund in 1890 note holders have experienced no losses whatever; in fact note holders of Canadian banks have not lost a dollar since 1881—nearly half a century ago.

While deposits are not a first charge on the assets of an insolvent bank, depositors have a certain measure of protection in the double liability clause, which provides that shareholders are subject to double liability. The record of losses sustained by depositors of Canadian banks compares most favourably with the experience of any other country in the world.

The following comparative figures (thousands omitted) are taken from the returns of the Chartered banks to the Minister of Finance for the month of August of each of the years indicated:

	1913	1921	1925	1929
Demand deposits by the public.....	$ 358,322	$ 527,363	$ 494,561	$ 665,969

Current loans abroad.....	46,340	150,764	220,891	238,674
Total Assets.....	1,526,196	2,766,744	2,725,418	3,452,309

These figures are illuminating since they reflect firstly, pre-war volume, secondly, the situation at the time of the post-war deflation, thirdly, the position in 1925, when the upward trend of business had definitely commenced, and lastly, the prosperous and active conditions which for some time have prevailed in almost every industry and which have caused a substantial expansion in current loans.

It will be noted that foreign deposits have consistently exceeded by a large margin ordinary loans abroad. Call loans abroad, largely in the international money markets of London and New York, represent a considerable proportion of the banks' readily available reserves and in reality form a substantial guarantee against unusual or unexpected domestic calls upon the banks. Moreover this line of liquid reserves is regulated only after due consideration has been given to all legitimate demands for accommodation from commercial and agricultural sources in Canada.

As already indicated the Canadian banks have a number of foreign branches and in addition thereto they have correspondents in all countries of the world. They have therefore been of great assistance in developing Canadian export trade and it is frequently advisable to consult them as to the credit standing of importers and exporters in the different countries, tariffs, customs regulations, etc.

Life Insurance

The business of Life Insurance was transacted in Canada by 41 active companies operating under Dominion licenses, 28 Canadian, 5 British and 8 United States' companies. The gross amount of life insurance effected in Canada during 1928 by Dominion licensees was $886,372,479, and the net amount in force (excluding $346,626,387 of group life insurance) at December 31, 1928, was $5,261,019,236, or more than double the net amount in force at the end of 1920. The growth of life insurance in Canada for Dominion companies for the past half century is shown by the following table:

Year	Gross Amount Effected	Net Amount in force
1875.....	$ 15,074,258	$ 85,009,264
1885.....	27,164,988	149,962,146
1895.....	44,341,198	319,257,581
1905.....	105,907,336	630,334,240
1915.....	221,119,558	1,311,616,677
1920.....	575,073,240	2,580,100,007
1925.....	699,349,802	4,017,930,558
1927.....	802,856,097	4,768,537,433
1928.....	886,372,479	5,261,019,236

Including the group life business of these companies, the life business of fraternal benefit societies and of provincial companies and societies, we find that the gross amount of new life insurance issued in Canada during 1928 was over $1,096,000,000, and at the close of the year the net amount in force over $5,993,000,000.

During the years 1875 to 1928 both inclusive the life insurance companies in Canada under Dominion licenses received over $2,051,000,000 in life and group insurance and annuity premiums, and during the same period have paid to Canadian policyholders for death claims, matured endowments, disability claims, surrender values, dividends to policyholders and life annuities over $1,055,400,000. Thus we have that for every $100 of premiums received during the 55 years the disbursements in respect of assurance, and annuity contracts were $51.45, leaving $48.55 to be carried to reserve, expenses and profits.

Fire Insurance

During 1928 fire insurance was transacted in Canada by 207 companies under Dominion licenses. The amount of fire premiums written in 1928 by these companies was $57,111,845, and the losses incurred $26,602,923, the corresponding figures for 1927 being $53,893,198, and $21,944,984.

Including the business of provincial fire insurance companies we find the following approximate results for 1928:

Amount written.....	$ 9,731,500,000
Amount in force December 31, 1928.....	10,059,500,000
Net premiums written.....	60,448,000
Net losses incurred.....	28,376,000

Canadian Finance

Canada is meeting her financial obligations at home and abroad; decreasing taxation on the people of the Dominion and incidentally increasing her revenues without recourse to any radical changes in her tariff regulations.

The Funded Debt of Canada is today largely owed to the people of Canada, and interest payable thereon is therefore largely remaining in the Dominion. Prior to the War, Canada's net debt amounted to $336,000,000, most of which was payable in London. At the end of the fiscal year, 1929, Canada's funded debt stood at $2,357,534,180 of which $1,825,408,244 or 77.5 per cent. was payable in Canada, $311,668,136 or 13.2 per cent. was payable in London and $220,457,800 or 9.3 per cent. was payable in New York. Canada's funded debt is steadily being decreased. During the past fiscal year, it was decreased by $51,581,559 and during the first six months of the present fiscal year, from April 1st to September 30th, it was further reduced by $52,579,711.

Canada's net debt has been reduced in a like manner. On March 31st, 1929, the net debt stood at $2,225,504,705, a reduction of $71,345,527 from the corresponding date in 1928, and a reduction of $122,329,665 from March, 1927.

"Nuisance" taxes have been largely abolished and the income tax has been considerably reduced. Despite this, the national revenue has been steadily increasing as shown in the following table for the fiscal years 1928 and 1929:

	1928	1929
Custom Duties.....	$156,985,817	$187,206,332
Excise Duties.....	57,400,897	63,684,953

Other Revenues.....	65,141,748	65,019,699
	<hr/> $429,847,551	<hr/> $460,940,727

In the first six months of the present fiscal year custom receipts totalled $97,751,892; Excise Duties totalled $33,943,615; Income Tax totalled $63,036,700; Other Taxes totalled $28,399,129 and other Revenues totalled $27,631,604, a total revenue for the six months amounting to $250,762,940 as compared with a total revenue of $235,792,712 in the corresponding six months of 1928.

Government expenditures remain practically stationary. During the fiscal year ended March last, total expenditures amounted to $378,806,313 as compared with $378,716,790 in the preceding fiscal year. These expenditures included:

Ordinary Expenditure

Despite income tax exemptions in recent years which have resulted in the practical total exemption from their incidence of the wage and salary earning classes, revenue from this source has shown a steady increase. This is undoubtedly due mainly to the increased industrial prosperity of the Dominion and the individual prosperity of Canadians a large percentage of whom receive incomes from government and industrial bonds, stocks and other sources in addition to their wages or salaries:

Canada's income tax reductions during the last seven years were:—

- 1922—Exemption for each dependent child under 18 years increased from $200 to $300.
- 1924—Exemption for dependent children increased from $300 to $500.
- 1926—Normal rate reduced from 4% to 2%. Exemption for single persons increased from $1,000 to $1,500. Exemption for householders or married persons increased from $2,000 to $3,000. Tax on corporation incomes in excess of $2,000 reduced from 10% to 9%.
- 1927—Reduction of 10% on all income tax rates. Age of exemption for children raised to 21 years.
- 1928—Reduction of 10% on individual income tax rates. Exemption of $500 allowed for dependents physically or mentally incapable of self support. Rate for corporations with incomes in excess of $2,000 reduced to 8%.

Commercial Intelligence Service

Although with much less frequency, the question is still asked as to what the Department is doing to assist Canadian exporters. In season and out of season, the Commercial Intelligence Service has tried to show not only what it has done but what it is prepared to do to help Canadian manufacturers to enter foreign markets, through a well-trained body of Trade Commissioners abroad.

The preliminary trade figures for the fiscal year ending March 31, 1929, will show that, without exception, in every country where the Commercial Intelligence Service was represented by a Trade Commissioner, there has been an increase in trade. These Trade Commissioners were posted primarily where it was reasonable to expect that additional trade might be secured, but, at the same time, these increases are not accidental. Evidence is available in the records of the department at Ottawa positively to identify Trade Commissioners with these increases.

Expansion of the Service

To the majority of manufacturers in the Dominion who are seeking and finding outlets for their products in foreign lands, the Service, in its thirty years of existence, has come to be accepted as an important factor in the remarkable development that has taken place. For purposes of comparison, the following table will show the increase in the number of offices and personnel (i.e., Trade Commissioners) at the end of each of the fiscal years mentioned:

Fiscal Year	Offices	T.C.'s	A.T.C.'s	J.T.C.	Total Personnel
1914.....	19	16	—	—	16
1919.....	18	17	1	—	18
1925.....	23	23	7	—	30
1929.....	32	31	11	8	50

Naturally, there was no development during the war period. With the passing of the Civil Service Act in 1918 all appointments to the Government service were regulated by competitive examination. Offices which had become vacant were filled by the appointment of several Trade Commissioners who were sent abroad immediately. Active recruiting commenced at the rate of about four Junior Trade Commissioners yearly. This ensured a steady supply of young men who, on the completion of their service at Ottawa, were posted to offices abroad as Assistant Trade Commissioners, so that when new offices were created or vacancies occurred, there would be no delay in filling these posts efficiently.

At the close of the year there were 31 Trade Commissioner offices with definite plans included for the opening of an additional post at San Francisco. Each of these offices is in charge of a Trade Commissioner and more than half of them with an Assistant Trade Commissioner as well. The complete list of offices with Trade Commissioners and their address is as follows:

Coincident with this expansion in the number of offices and increase in personnel during the past eight years, there has been a corresponding improvement in organization and methods both in the department and in the Trade Commissioners' offices—in fact, the progress in this respect has been greater in the past eight years than in the twenty-five preceding years.

The creation of the Foreign Tariffs Division, the inauguration of the Exporters' Division, the cataloguing under commodity headings of all data relating to the markets for Canadian products, are some of the developments which have taken place.

The Commercial Intelligence Service has two main divisions—the administrative or headquarters division at Ottawa, and the field force comprising the Trade Commissioners and Assistant Trade Commissioners in foreign countries. Through its wide ramifications two objects are sought: a worldwide system of collecting commercial intelligence, and the distribution of this intelligence where it can be capitalized to the advantage of the Canadian exporter. Any bona fide firm or individual in Canada engaged in the export of Canadian products may make use of the Commercial Intelligence Service at all times free of charge; and on the other hand, foreign firms looking to Canada as a source of supply may expect the same assistance.

How the Exporter can aid the Trade Commissioner

The function of Trade Commissioners is to encourage export trade by way of reporting opportunities for the sale of Canadian products abroad, to bring the Canadian exporter and foreign importer into contact and to assist in the negotiations which may ensue. Much valuable preliminary information can be obtained by applying to the Commercial Intelligence Service at Ottawa. Thereafter the progress of the inquiry depends largely upon personal investigation by Trade Commissioners, and it should be realized that a very definite duty rests upon the prospective exporter which is to ensure that his first letter should contain the very fullest information in regard to the commodity which he desires to sell and which may be briefly indicated as follows:

- (a) Catalogues and best export prices c.i.f. port of entry, or failing that, f.o.b. Canadian port. It is quite useless to send prices f.o.b. factory.
- (b) Details regarding process of manufacture if convenient.
- (c) If not too bulky, samples of what the firms have to offer should be forwarded—not necessarily a full range—and a draft or money order sufficient to cover the customs duties and landing charges on the samples.
- (d) Bankers' references.
- (e) The proportion of output which is available for export, time required to ship from receipt of order and the quantity for which orders will be accepted.

The Trade Commissioner will thus be in a position to make a survey of his territory, report the opportunities for the lines to be reported, and can then either place the exporter in communication with reliable importers or recommend suitable agents.

What may be regarded as an outstanding example of the kind of service that is rendered by the Trade Commissioners, reported to the department by the Canadian firm concerned, may be cited. The Canadian Trade Commissioner at Brussels learned in November last that, owing to the failure of the apple crop in Europe, there was an excellent opportunity in that market for Canadian apples. He reported the situation to the Canadian Fruit Trade Commissioner at Liverpool, who cabled the Fruit Commissioner of the Department of Agriculture, with whom, in so far as the marketing of apples and vegetables is concerned, the department at Ottawa acts in co-operation. The opportunity was then telegraphed to shippers in the Maritime Provinces and Ontario who were likely to be in a position to take advantage of it, and as a result orders were secured for over 74,000 barrels which, at a c.i.f. price of $5.50 per barrel, brought the total sales of apples to Belgium up to $403,000. Prior to this season, practically no Canadian apples have been shipped to Belgium.

The following letter is quoted as another example of how business is secured by Canadian firms, often without the knowledge of the department. It is a reply from an exporter who was asked whether or not he wished to have his name retained in the Exporters' Directory:—

Please keep my name in the Exporters' Directory. I have received good results from the Trade Commissioners abroad, and foreign firms. Last year I sold over $50,000 worth of canned lobsters and apples, largely due to firms' names received through the Trade Commissioners in foreign countries.

Canadian Exporters' Exceptional Advantages

Canadian firms seeking to exploit foreign markets have two exceptional advantages which are probably not often realized. Being comparatively few in number, their inquiries can receive the personal attention of the Trade Commissioner: that is, it is possible for him to call upon or to communicate individually with importers in his territory whom he considers likely to be interested in the connection offered. This condition also makes for speed in ascertaining possibilities and reporting the information back to the Canadian inquirer.

In the same way and for the same reasons a Canadian Trade Commissioner returning to Canada on tour can, during the course of his visit, call upon and discuss export problems with every firm known to be exporting or interested in exporting to his territory.

Visits of Trade Commissioners to Canada

The periodical return of Trade Commissioners for official tours of the Dominion is therefore one of the most important factors in effecting practical co-operation between the Canadian exporter and the foreign importer. From what are known as tropical posts a Trade Commissioner is entitled to return to Cañada every second year, from a semi-tropical post every third year, and from all other posts every fourth year. By the adoption of this schedule something like uniformity is obtained in the number of Trade Commissioners visiting Canada each year.

Trade Commissioners, well in advance of the time they are to arrive in Canada, circularize individual exporters for the purpose of determining what special points they wish to take up and on which full information is secured. In addition to this form of publicity, the department publishes a notice in the Commercial Intelligence Journal inviting firms who may be interested in any particular territory from which a Trade Commissioner is returning to state whether or not an interview is desired, and the names of such firms, together with those with whom the Trade Commissioner has been in communication, form the basis of the itinerary. A tour occupies from five to six months and as a general rule a Trade Commissioner visits each industrial centre from Halifax to Vancouver. The number of firms interviewed is never less than 200 and in some instances over 300.

The statement that a number of agents have been appointed on the recommendation, or through the assistance of, Trade Commissioners, is simply an indication that certain business has been initiated but, in the great majority of cases, direct evidence is naturally not obtainable as to the value of the business which resulted. The part which the Trade Commissioner plays in such negotiations ends when the arrangement is completed, and thereafter, for obvious reasons, it is no part of his duty to ascertain from firms so aided what subsequent developments have been. In recent years, however, there has been noted a growing disposition on the part of Canadian exporters, familiar with the work of the Commercial Intelligence Service, to report to what extent business has been developed through the assistance of the Trade Commissioners. In the course of a year hundreds of letters of appreciation are received.

The following details embracing twenty-five Trade Commissioner offices give some impression of the work during calendar year 1928.

Value of New Business Reported—$5,000,000.

Agencies definitely established—411.

Number of New Inquiries—3,989

Reports submitted to Canadian Firms—3,779

Number of Trade Inquiries Submitted—1,172.

Personal Calls, by Canadian Exporters on Trade Commissioners—489

Interviews with Foreign Importers—19,937

Calls made on Importers—18,667

The Commercial Intelligence Service believes that it is working along good lines, with officers who are eager, keen and efficient. They are fully alive to their responsibility to Canadian exporters, and Canadian exporters in their turn should have some realization of their responsibility as well as of their opportunities. Firms who are contemplating an extension of their business to foreign markets should endeavour to master the fundamentals of export practice. Some firms who have experimented in export have had unfortunate experiences which, in almost every instance, can be attributed to lack of knowledge of essentials and the adoption of ordinary precautions.

The Commercial Intelligence Service stands behind every earnest attempt to exploit foreign markets with its advice and practical assistance.

Exhibition Commission

The Exhibition Commission, which was formerly under the Department of Immigration and Colonization, is now administered by the Department of Trade and Commerce. All the exhibition equipment and most of the staff was last year transferred to London, England, in view of the extensive exhibition work to be undertaken in the United Kingdom and on the Continent of Europe. A warehouse has been erected in London to provide cold storage space for fruit, dairy produce and other perishable goods, so that these may be available for display at any time. This warehouse will also be the workshop and distributing centre for exhibition material required at the various exhibitions and fairs.

Offices for the exhibition staff have been taken in London at British Columbia House and the work is under the direction of Mr. J. O. Turcotte, Canadian Government Exhibition Commissioner. Small warehousing premises have also been retained in Canada with a small staff in Winnipeg and St. Catharines, the former for the purpose of preparing grains and grasses for exhibition use, and the latter for processing and bottling fruits, vegetables and so forth, as well as building show-stands and panels for use at exhibitions in the United States.

In co-operation with the Empire Marketing Board, the Exhibition Commission took a prominent part in the most important exhibitions held in the United Kingdom during 1928, showing natural resources and foodstuffs. By means of these exhibitions and efforts of Mr. D. G. Gerahty, Canada's Director of Publicity in Great Britain, the fullest advantage is now being taken of campaign of the Empire Marketing Board which has for its object the development of trade within the Empire. Last year material was furnished for and displays made of Canada's products at more than seventy-five exhibitions and fairs including a number of large industrial fairs where a wide range of industrial products were displayed and a much more extensive programme is contemplated for the present year.

Director of Publicity

Realizing the necessity for systematic propaganda to stimulate the interest in export trade particularly on the part of firms whose activities were largely confined to the domestic market, the Department inaugurated last year an advertising campaign and appointed a Director of Publicity. The initial advertisements were placed in a selected list of daily newspapers, magazines and financial papers and emphasized the almost unlimited natural resources of the Dominion, the need for their development, and the desirability of exploiting foreign markets for the sale of the finished products. This was followed by a general campaign through the trade journals and periodicals selected in accordance with the industry whose interests they represented. Results were manifested most strikingly in the increasing number of inquiries received by the Commercial Intelligence Service at Ottawa. Many of these periodicals and journals which in the past had more or less confined their attention to the development of the domestic market and to the retail trade are now devoting much editorial and other space toward opportunities for export.

Co-operating closely with the Director of Publicity at Ottawa and coincident with the transfer of the branch of the Exhibition Commissioner to London, the Canadian Director of Publicity in London, also a new appointment, has been successful in initiating an extensive advertising campaign in various publications in the United Kingdom. Special Canadian supplements were issued by a number of prominent British publications in all of which emphasis was placed on the opportunities presented for reciprocal trade increase and the enthusiasm of the people of Canada. At all times the value of the services of Trade Commissioners was emphasized. The reaction to these advertisements has been prompt and cordial.

Following a personal reconnaissance of Latin American Republics by the Deputy Minister of the Department during the summer of 1927 a special news service in Spanish was commenced. The efforts of the Canadian Trade Commissioners having jurisdiction over these countries has been considerably augmented by the dissemination of Canadian news items which go regularly to over 130 newspapers in these republics.

Motion Picture Bureau

Pictorial publicity, especially the motion picture, as a propaganda and advertising force and as a factor in education, makes a universal appeal and is tremendous in its influence. The Motion Picture Bureau functions as the producer and distributor of motion and still pictorial matter of all kinds, designed to disseminate information throughout the world regarding Canada, its resources, attractions and opportunities, and to encourage development and the bringing in of tourists and settlers. The Bureau also acts as a central organization for the production of motion and still photographic material of a technical, informative and instructional nature, for all departments of the Federal Government and other affiliated organizations. The bureau has, since a few years after its inception, specialized in the production of a series of one-reel films depicting Canada, its resources, attractions and opportunities, which have been circulated throughout the world, both theatrically and non-theatrically. From twelve to twenty of these subjects are produced each year. The average length of these films is 800 feet, and the amount of film in circulation throughout the world (exclusive of Canada) during the fiscal year was approximately 1,269,600 feet.

Several years ago, a policy of co-operating with commercial film producers, especially the large producers in the United States operating in Canada, was inaugurated, the idea being to encourage the greater production of films in the Dominion, and to ensure that depictions of Canada and Canadian life should bear the stamp of authenticity. This policy has been enlarged to include a definite co-operative scheme with the so-called "news weekly" producers and the producers of films similar to those of the bureau. The value of this development was strikingly demonstrated during the celebration of recent great events in the Dominion—The Diamond Jubilee of Confederation, the visit of H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, the tour of the British Premier, the opening of the new Peace Bridge, and the holding of the World's Poultry Congress in Ottawa—when the co-operation of the bureau with the commercial film concerns was the means of securing wide pictorial publicity throughout the world.

Financing Export Trade

To any manufacturer who realizes the difficulties of producing an article which fills the requirements of foreign markets, and of securing satisfactory customers for that article against the competition of the other manufacturing countries of the world, the importance given to the subsequent details of the business may seem, at times, a little exaggerated. It is undoubtedly true, however, that close attention to those details of export business which follow the consummation of a sale, are of the greatest importance. The foreign customer not only wants standard quality goods at a competitive price, but also wants those goods delivered to him within contract time, packed in a proper way and accompanied by all the necessary documents properly made out to the last detail; and if the customer does not get what he wants along these lines, he will take his business elsewhere. Documents which do not arrive as soon as the goods, or a missing consular vise or consular invoice, will cause delays and perhaps fines. A description of the goods which may appear entirely reasonable at this end, may not be at all what is required to secure the proper tariff interpretation in the consignee's country. Such incidents are so vexatious to importers that no firm can expect to secure or retain customers unless close attention is paid to the requirements of their market along these lines. For a firm whose personnel does not know these requirements by experience, it is not always a simple matter to obtain the necessary information. In the present article, an endeavor is made to indicate the assistance which banks can render in this connection, as well as banking requirements in relation to the handling and financing of foreign shipments.

Extension of Credit by Exporters

Credit is an element in most business transactions. It can be understood that it is even more necessary in foreign than in domestic trade, since more time is usually taken up by the movement of goods between seller and buyer when these two are located in different countries, and Custom House delays are often a factor. The seller who receives a request for the extension of credit in connection with a sale has three things to consider:—(1) The financial standing of his customer; (2) the custom of the foreign market in regard to credit terms on the particular commodity being dealt in and (3) his own ability to finance the business.

The seller's bank can obtain for him a report on the prospective customer's resources and the custom of the market in regard to extension of credit. It should be pointed out here, however, that to obtain complete information by cable is usually a very expensive process, so that every effort should be made to anticipate the need for it before the matter becomes urgent. Again, the quality of the information varies. In countries where Canadian bank branches are located, it is often more complete than when received from correspondents. Sometimes, however, accurate detailed information is impossible to obtain. The banker will always do his best to advise the customer whether, in his opinion, the credit risk is reasonable, but obviously there are cases hard to decide, where the seller's judgment must be the deciding factor. Referring now to the third point mentioned above, the ability of the seller to finance the business, it is obvious that he does not want to tie up his capital in goods in transit, or in 90 days' paper awaiting payment, if he can avoid doing so. He may not be able to avoid doing it in all cases, and a certain proportion of exporters' drafts, therefore, go forward on a collection basis. For the rest, all good exporting houses have arrangements with their banks, whereby they can discount sight or time drafts on good names abroad. The willingness of the bank to enter into such an arrangement naturally depends on the financial standing of their customer, and the amount of credit involved.

Bank Discounts

The negotiation of clean bills is tantamount to making an unsecured loan to the drawers, with the added security of the drawee's name after acceptance.

In discounting both documentary and clean bills, the bank's main security, in the first instance, lies in the responsibility of the drawer. In the case of any trouble with the drawee, the bank is in a weak position unless its power of recourse to the maker is reasonably certain to be productive of satisfactory results. Drawers, therefore, must have a capital adequate to bear the loss which may easily arise from an unfortunate export transaction. The extra risk contained in export business does not lie in the greater lack of probity of foreign houses, but in the room which exists for errors and misunderstandings on account of the distances separating buyer and seller, and the difficulty and expense of conducting a long distance legal action. Misunderstandings are specially liable to arise in the case of transactions effected by correspondence. Litigation is often a lengthy and expensive process; in many cases the results are not worth the outlay.

The risk which underlies the discounting of documentary foreign drafts is not always clearly understood and it is not an uncommon thing for a firm which has been unable to finance an export shipment to criticize its bankers for their refusal to discount drafts covering the merchandise. This firm has probably been told, quite truly, that exporting involves the granting of credit. It now gets a profitable and relatively large order from a foreign house on whom good reports have been received. The terms may be sight, thirty or sixty days—quite moderate credit—yet the bank may be unwilling to discount the seller's documentary drafts. The Canadian firm cannot understand the refusal since, in its opinion, the bank is fully covered by the merchandise until acceptance, and, in the case of sight drafts, until payment. The answer is this: that this security of merchandise is often more apparent than real: that many causes for refusal of delivery may crop up, and the goods may then be a thousand miles from a good market, and unsaleable except at a sacrifice. The principal backing is then the capital of the drawer. Where this warrants the extension of the credit involved, the draft will be discounted. Firms of the class that we have referred to were probably of moderate capital, though of good standing. Their domestic business used up their resources to the hilt; and an unsuccessful excursion into the export field for other than a moderate amount might have brought them into a bad position, and left a slow loan on the hands of the bank which thought it was discounting a self-liquidating bill.

Currency of Bills

The currency in which a draft is drawn depends on the arrangements made by seller and buyer at the time the sale is effected; and these arrangements will vary according to the country in which the one and the other are located. The object of the drawer of a draft is to secure a certain and definite return from it. He can best do this by drawing in terms of his own money, thus shifting the risk of loss from exchange fluctuations on to the shoulders of the drawee; or, if the drawer's currency is not quoted and dealt in to any great extent in the country of the drawee, the former can make his drafts payable in some stable and well-known currency. Sterling was, par excellence, the money of international trade prior to the war, since it was quoted and dealt in all the world over, and a sterling remittance always could be turned into gold on the London market.

At one time Canadian exporters made great use of United States dollars as a basis for submitting prices to foreign buyers, and as the currency in which their drafts were made payable. The practice is not so much in vogue at the present time. There is only one sound reason for dealing in this way, viz., the fact that in some countries quotations for Canadian dollars are not received as frequently as those for United States exchange. At such points the importer who goes to the bank to take up a draft is liable to get a more accurate and favourable rate if the draft is payable in United States dollars than if settlement is called for in Canadian dollars. The fact that Canadian quotations are not received as frequently as United States quotations, cannot always be avoided. Unless Canada is regularly doing a good volume of business with the country concerned, it does not pay the banks at that point to go to the expense of receiving frequent exchange quotations by cable.

It is not always possible to draw in the currency of the seller's country, since some importers prefer to make payment in their own money. If this money is not exchangeable for gold, and is subject to violent fluctuations in its exchange relations with the currencies of other countries, an importer will find it difficult to make purchases on this basis. If, however, the money of his country is moderately stable, competition may tend to force exporters to draw as the importer desires.

Before the war, drafts on Great Britain, Australia, New Zealand, South Africa and the British colonies using sterling currency were drawn in sterling, and the same is largely true today, although for exports to these points from the United States, dollars may be used, or dollar Letters of Credit established. Drafts on the countries of South and Central America are rarely, if ever, phrased in terms of the local currency of these countries, and sterling and dollar drafts predominate. The same is true as regards the Orient.

Drafts on the main European countries were in many cases drawn in francs, marks, crowns, pesetas or whatever the currency might be; today this is not so, except insofar as some of the countries which have returned to the gold standard are concerned. Thus, a substantial international business is done in Dutch guilders, and Swiss francs and Swedish crowns are also used. So far, it is not usual for drafts on Germany to be phrased in terms of the new German mark. In all cases, however, our remarks on the wide use of sterling and dollars are more or less applicable.

• Exchange Clauses

The fact that a bill is not payable in the currency of the drawee's country at once gives rise to the question of how the conversion rate between the two currencies shall be established. If this were considered a matter for arrangement between the collecting bank and the drawee, it is not difficult to imagine the complications which might arise. Would a bill for $1,000 United States currency drawn on a firm in Buenos Aires, Argentina, be settled for by the drawee paying to the bank an amount of local paper currency which, at par, would equal $1,000 U.S. or would the drawee perhaps consider settlement made by the tender of a sight draft on New York for the face amount of the bill—a settlement which would involve a loss to the drawer, if he had expected to be paid by cable? All these and other possible points of issue, are settled by the addition of a clause to the draft indicating the basis on which settlement shall be effected. The usual clauses for dollar and sterling drafts on foreign countries read respectively as follows:—

Dollar Drafts on Foreign Countries

Payable at the bank's selling rate on day of payment for sight drafts on (Canadian dollars—Montreal, U.S. dollars—New York).

Sterling Drafts on Foreign Countries

Payable at the bank's selling rate on day of payment for sight drafts on London.

Drafts drawn at ninety days' sight on South American points are not uncommon. In the case of such drafts, the drawer will have to realize that he is to lose interest, not only during the transit period of the draft and return remittance but also during the time occupied by the draft in arriving at maturity. Thus, he will have had to include in his quotation interest at the prevailing rate made up as follows:—

Transit to and from Argentina and delays.....	60 days
Elapsed time to maturity date of draft.....	90 days
	150 days

Some drawees are slow about accepting drafts. Therefore, only experience can show exactly what loss of time should be allowed for in such transactions.

It is advisable to include bank commission and other charges in the face amount, if the drawer expects to recover the amount of his invoice in full without deduction.

There are special customs in connection with the collection or negotiation through London of bills drawn on Australia, New Zealand, Africa and the Orient; the details are somewhat too long to be included in an article of this nature, but they may be found in the booklet "Financing Foreign Trade", published by the Royal Bank of Canada, which can be obtained on application to Mr. Graham F. Towers at the Head Office of the bank in Montreal.

Instructions to Banks

Exporters, when placing bills with a bank, either for discount or for collection, should be careful to give the bank full instructions in regard to the handling of the drafts in question. Instructions as to whether documents should be surrendered against payment or against acceptance, are so obvious that it is only by some clerical error that they are ever omitted, but there are numerous other points which are frequently not covered when bills are placed with a bank:—the omission sometimes leads to unnecessary trouble and expense. Example of what such instructions may consist of is given below:

- Protest for Non-Payment
- Non-Acceptance
- Permit Drawee to inspect merchandise before accepting draft.
- Hold for arrival of goods.
- Payable at collecting bank's selling rate for Sight Drafts on.....on date of payment. Cables
- Payable at selling rate for cheques on.....Remit proceeds by cable at our expense.
- Collect interest at% from date of draft until approximate date of arrival of cover in.....
- Allow Drawee interest at% per annum for anticipated payment.
- All charges are for account Ourselves
Drawee.
- Waive charges if refused by Drawee.
- Advise Acceptance by Cable.

Letters of Credit

A considerable volume of international business is financed by means of bankers' credits. When exporters can manage to have customers open such credits, this is obviously a very desirable way of doing business, because risk of loss and any trouble regarding financing are eliminated. While buyers have to pay the bank at their end a moderate commission for this facility, the extra expense is often compensated for by the more favorable quotations they can secure from sellers if payment is effected in this manner.

When Canadian exporting firms have credits opened in their favour, it will pay them to discuss with their bankers the sense and terms of these documents, if they are in any doubt regarding the provisions embodied therein, or the protection afforded. For example, the credit may be issued by a foreign bank, with whose standing they are not familiar. The Canadian bank can advise them whether the foreign bank in question is entirely responsible. Again, the credit may have a revocable provision which needs to be carefully considered. It is not possible to discuss here the varied aspects of this class of banking document, but it may be said that great care has to be exercised by an exporter to live up meticulously to all the requirements of a credit. Some of these may seem to him absurd and unnecessary, but he must remember that the bank at this end has no authority to vary the instructions in any way, shape or form. If they require alteration, the matter should be taken up as soon as advice of the credit is received, instead of waiting until the shipment has been loaded on board steamer and the documents brought to the bank.

No reference has been made in this article to shipping documents, although these are important from a banking point of view when drafts are received from clients, either for collection, or for discount or under terms of Letters of Credit. In the first case, the bank needs proper documents in order to render the client good service; in the second and third cases, it needs them for its own protection. This section of the subject is dealt with in the Royal Bank of Canada booklet which has previously been referred to, viz., "Financing Foreign Trade."

Export Shipping Instructions, South Africa

(Contributed)

On receipt of an order for goods from South Africa, the procedure would be as follows:

Refer to your schedule of sailings to South African port, then promptly acknowledge the order in question, stating the exact shipping date and the name of the steamer on which the goods will be forwarded.

Of course if the time is limited between receipt of order and date of sailing, then an approximate shipping date should be given, or a fixed date provided the necessary arrangements can be made with the Steamer's agents.

Notify the Steamship Co. of the order, stating the approximate number of cubic feet, and ask for space reservations for a certain sailing. This will be promptly acknowledged by the Steamship Co. who issue a contract number and such number should be used in connection with further correspondence regarding this particular order.

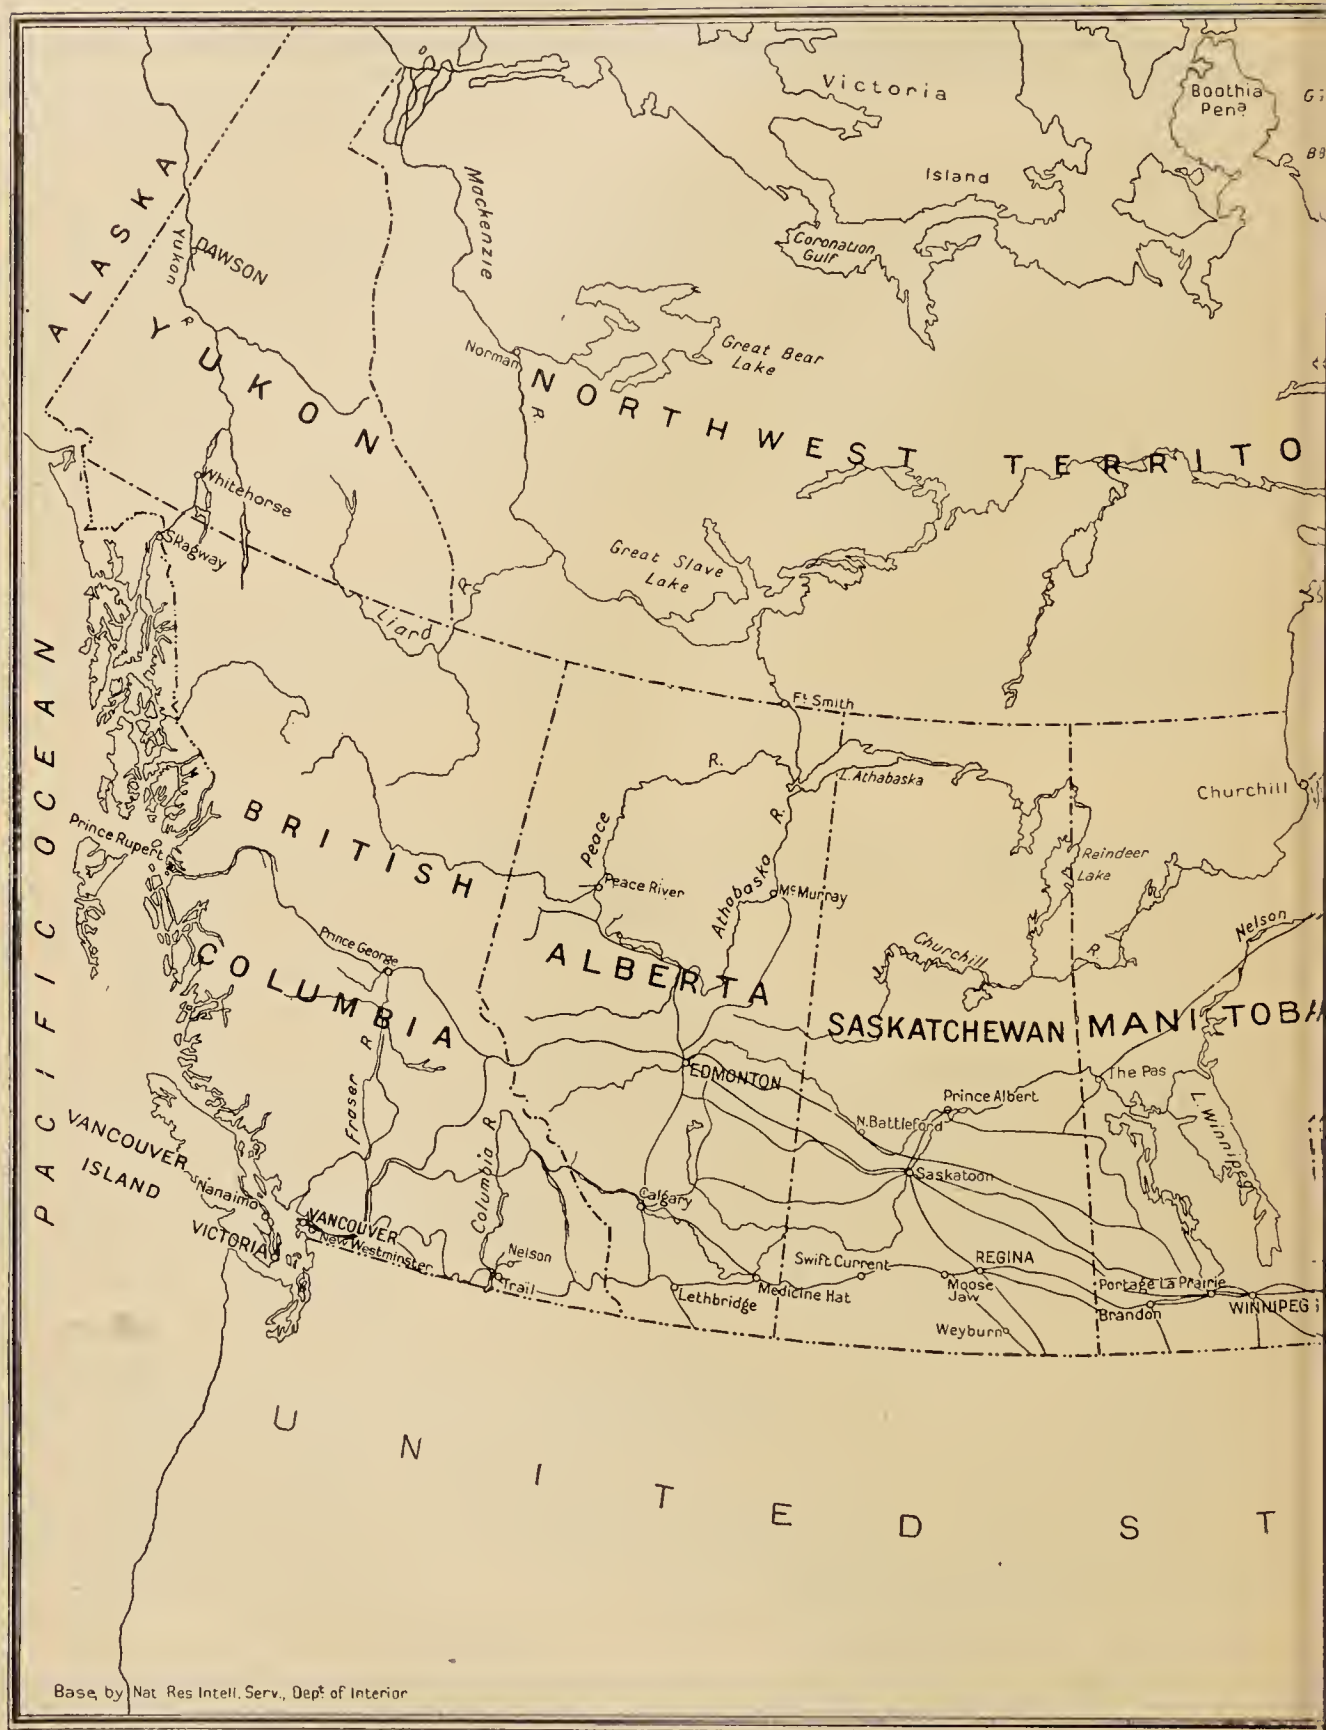

Follow any instructions that are given by consignee, but if none are given, make invoices out in five copies, two original copies and one plain copy to consignee. The original copies of invoice are certified, that is, the Certificate of Origin is to be printed or typed on back, and same must be signed and witnessed; a fourth copy is retained for Drawback of Customs' Duty, provided this is claimed and the fifth copy is for your own files. If you should have a representative or commission agent in South Africa an additional copy of invoice should be forwarded to said agent.

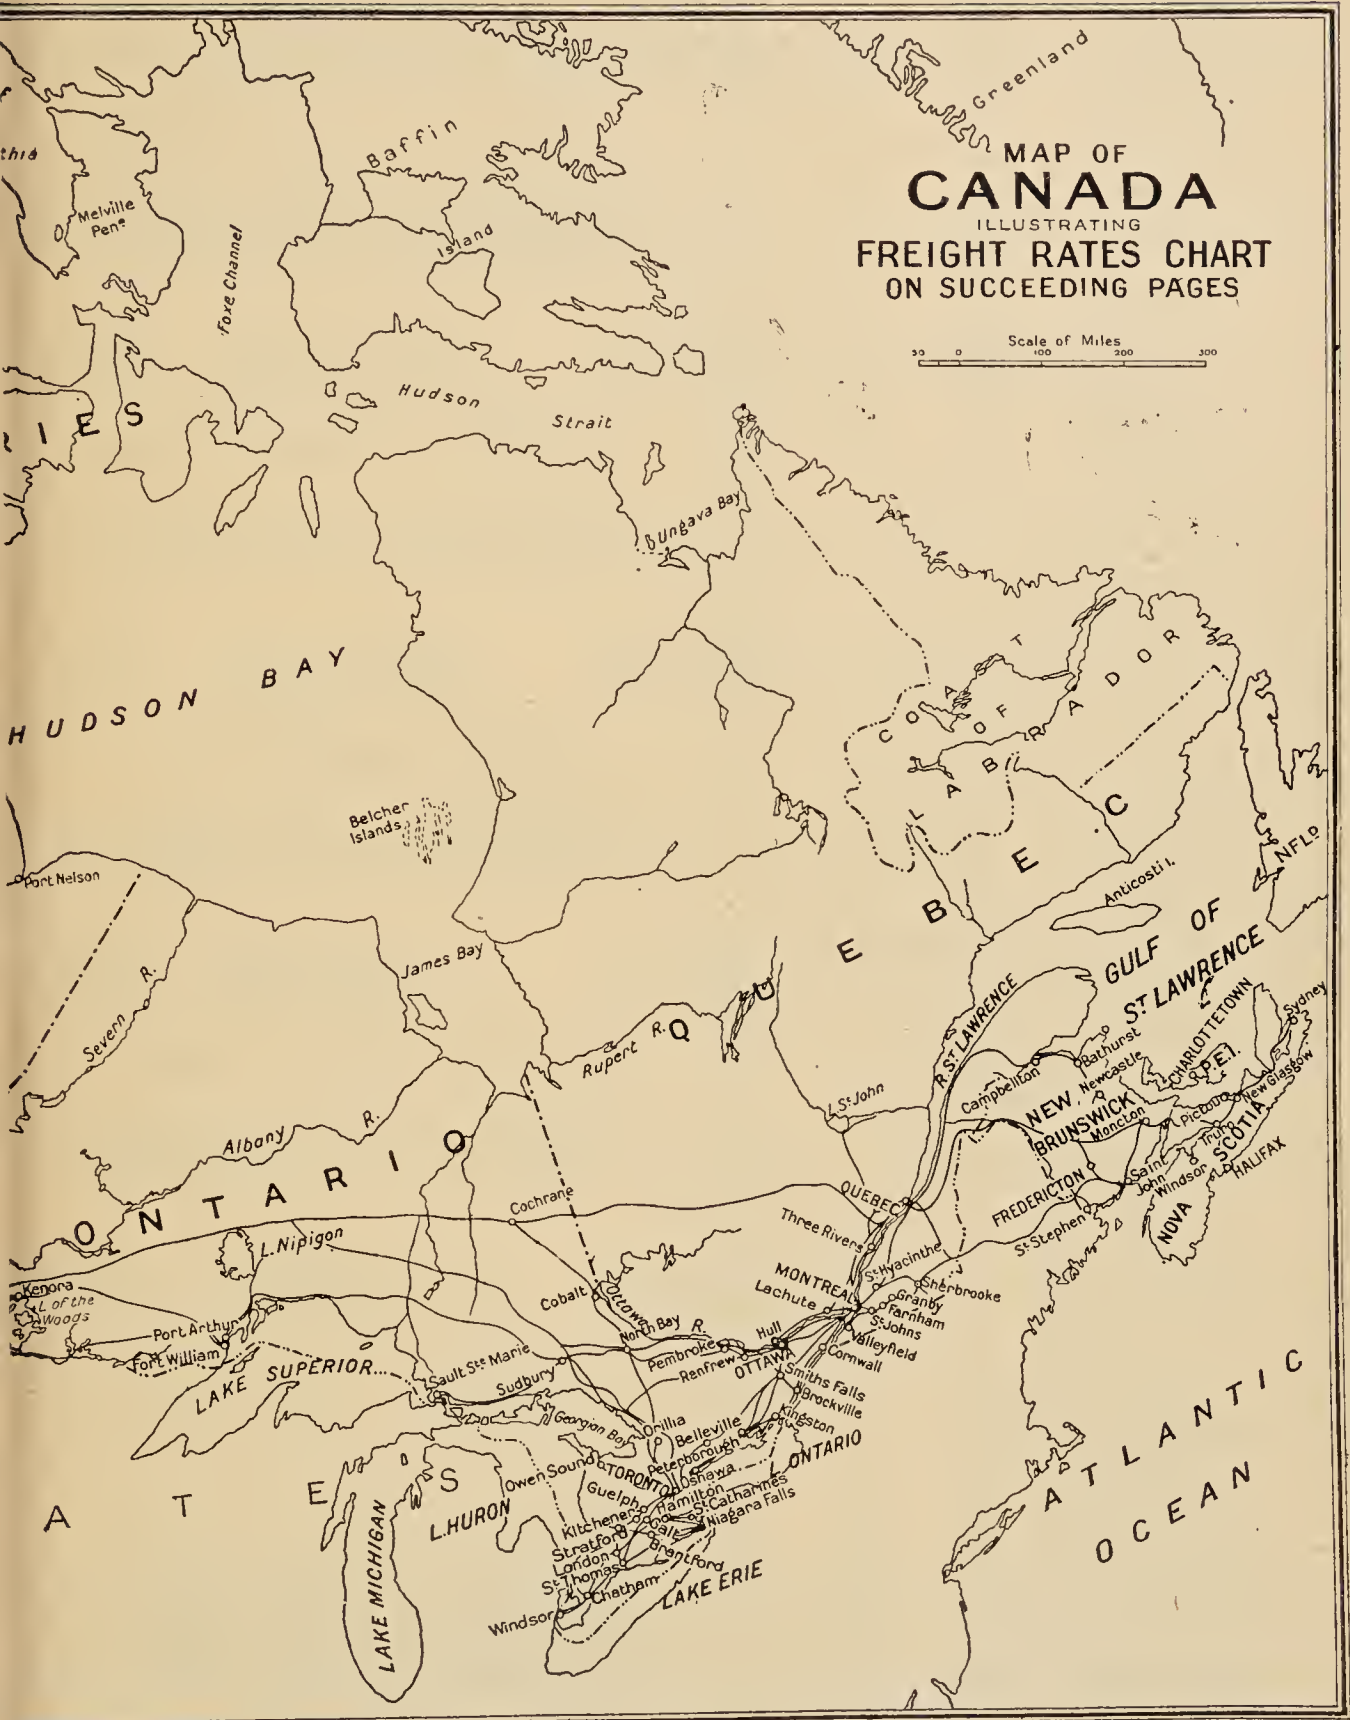

Invoices should show Order No. and Item No's of said order, quantity, description, number, marks, net and gross weights, measurements, and contents of each package in detail. Any of these forms can be obtained for reference.

The goods should all be shipped prepaid to Seaboard, and original Railway Bill of Lading mailed immediately to Steamer's Agents.

Next make ocean Bills of Lading or instruct Steamer's Agents to do so. These should be made out in four copies with instructions to forward one original and duplicate via ship's mail to consignee and one copy to your office.

CANADIAN EXPORT FREIGHT RATES

(SEE MAP ON PAGES IMMEDIATELY PRECEDING)

It is realized that, even in a chart so extensive as the one appearing on this and succeeding pages, full justice cannot be done to all the exportable products of Canada nor to all places producing them. Consideration had to be given to the matter of getting production points that would be reasonably representative and when used in conjunction with the map preceding this chart would convey similar information with respect to shipping points not mentioned on the chart. In fact, the commodities mentioned may be considered simply as samples, and it is desired that intending importers in other countries will use the other data provided to fill in the gaps in the range of goods, or better still, enquire of the nearest Canadian Trade Commissioner (addresses given on page 163-4) for any other products in which he may be interested. In spite of the foregoing it is felt, however, that this statement of exportable products should be suggestive of the variety and range of production in Canada and of the widely distributed area over which Canada's industrial life is spread.

If ocean Bills of Lading are made out by Steamer's Agents, instruct them particularly re. the ocean freight, which would in most cases be forwarded collect, unless contrary instructions had been given by consignees.

Export entries covering said shipment are required in duplicate, but if goods are subject to Drawback, an additional copy is required and all three should be stamped "SUBJECT TO DRAWBACK." The export entries may either be forwarded with shipment attached to way-bill or mailed to Steamship agents, or direct to Collector of National Revenue at the last port in Canada through which said goods are destined to pass.

Full shipping instructions should be forwarded with Bills of Lading, etc.

Duplicate statements should now be made out, showing the amount of the invoice, freight, insurance and terms. One copy to be retained for your files and the other to be forwarded with invoices to consignee. Insurance is generally figured on a ten per cent. advance after freight has been added.

All the above should be promptly attended to and complete documents mailed in plenty of time to connect with steamer on which goods are being shipped.

If consignees have an open policy or wish to arrange their own insurance, simply follow their instructions, otherwise make a statement of said insurance and notify the Insurance Co. with whom you do business.

Parcels Post Shipment to South Africa

(Contributed)

Johnny Canuck having gathered up about all the business he thinks he will be able to secure from his home market begins to look around for other outlets so that he may in this way increase his production, bring down his overhead and thus offer the very best of value to his Canadian and export trade.

Johnny has heard somewhere that there is a Department in Ottawa especially established to assist any Canadian exporter in obtaining foreign business. He writes the Department of Trade & Commerce and is agreeably surprised to receive a great deal of specially classified information perhaps regarding his own products but at least regarding a great many different markets where specially trained men are right on the ground to investigate the possibilities for his products for him personally, all free of charge.

Knowing there are good quantities of his products used in South Africa, he writes the Canadian Government Trade Commissioner there with particulars as to the best price he can quote, some information about his goods with perhaps samples and any suggestions as to the most likely class of dealer through whom his products can best be handled.

The Trade Commissioner in South Africa will investigate thoroughly, approach one or more likely representatives prepared to handle the line on a commission basis. He will report as to the prospects and can often suggest, through his experience with the local market, how best to introduce the products.

After some correspondence, Johnny finally selects a commission agent in South Africa, sends him full particulars of his products and in a short time begins to receive possibly small orders at first but gradually increasing in volume if his goods and service are right. After a year or so of prompt service and full value products he is fairly well established and is nicely able to increase his volume of production in this way.

The best part of it is, the simple and easy way in which a great many products can be handled for the export market. Here is an example of just what occurs in the transactions of a good many Canadian exporters regularly.

The order received from South Africa is put up according to requirements and instructions from the agent or according to established custom as far as packing, labelling, etc., is concerned. This order is then put up in standard Parcel Post carton properly addressed direct to the customer purchasing the goods in South Africa and delivered to the Post Office, from whom a receipt is obtained for one or more packages covering the entire order.

Invoices are then made out in the usual way for the value of the goods plus cost of postage and insurance and a draft sent through the local bank made payable thirty, sixty or ninety days (according to pre-arranged terms) after receipt of goods in South Africa. The invoices with Parcel Post receipt attached are mailed direct to the customer, one copy being sent to the commission agent or representative who originally sent the order to the factory.

The draft, if necessary, can be discounted at the bank but, where possible, it is better to await receipt of the proceeds; in which case the bank charges very little more in the way of collection charges than would be charged for collecting a draft right in Canada. When the proceeds of the draft have been credited to the manufacturer's account, he notifies his agent in South Africa by sending him a credit for the commission due on the shipment. When these credits reach a certain total or perhaps at the end of each quarter, a remittance is made to the agent in South Africa for his commission unless some other satisfactory arrangement has been made.

If a good agent has been appointed, there is, if anything, less chance of loss in accounts from well established foreign houses than in the average run of business amongst concerns right here in Canada.

Usually the invoice is wanted in triplicate and must have a standard declaration either stamped or printed on them. There is usually a period of two or three weeks after the draft has been accepted by the customer before credit is obtained at the local bank but outside these differences there are few, if any, details to be watched which cannot be easily handled by an ordinary intelligent clerk as a routine matter.

Of course, we cannot all ship our goods by Parcel Post but there are many manufacturers in Canada who could do a splendid export business in the way outlined above. Such manufacturers are neglecting to take advantage of splendid facilities offered through the Department of Trade & Commerce in practically every important market.

Procedure in Shipping Merchandise to Brazil

(Contributed)

Copy of Instruction Sheets covering the complete marking and movement of material and handling of papers as between the plant, the sales office, Treasurer's Department, Traffic Department and Steamship Company or forwarding agents.

The following outline traces the method employed by a Canadian Company to ensure adequate treatment of their shipments to Brazil under present conditions so that difficulties and documentary and official hazards may be avoided. It is to be looked on simply as a sample which, it is hoped, will prove stimulating and suggestive to other shippers who have similar problems to meet and who require to study carefully all the information available so as to ensure the prompt despatch and arrival of their goods in correct order and thus enable their customers to clear the goods without difficulty, delay or penalty.

It so happens that this particular set of points has been made out to cover shipments from Canada via New York. As there is now a regular Canadian service from Montreal in summer and Halifax in winter, Canadian exporters should find their shipments greatly facilitated by this route. For shipping through a Canadian port the procedure is the same unless the exporter does not employ a forwarding agent but relies as he can usually safely do on the steamship company to carry out the essential details to be complied with at the port. Proper notification to the steamship company enables all details to be looked after and usually provides time for banking documents to be returned for effecting banking arrangements through the exporter's own bank, which is usually much to be preferred. Care should be taken to see that no delay occurs in the handling of these documents as delay will only cause trouble at the foreign port.

This is not set up as exact procedure for every class of goods. It contains, however, many valuable suggestions for anyone who is making the essential, careful study of export procedure which is an important factor in maintaining steady and happy relations with importers in other countries.

In general, it may be noted that nearly every country has some variation in procedure or in the details required on documents and not only is the definite scheduling of procedure (such as has been done here in the case of Brazil) desirable for each country through a study of export books and the shipper's and other people's practice, but also adequate means should be developed to keep export departments informed promptly of any changes made, some of which come into force on very short notice and occasionally call for serious penalties if errors are made.

Further information or elucidation of points is available on application to the Department of Trade and Commerce or to business organizations interested in export trade.

ENCLOSURE NO. 3

DUTIES:

BRAZIL

(in milreis)

Duty is payable:—

60% in gold
40% in paper

Ratio-variable: At present 1 gold milreis equals 4,567 paper milreis.

Equivalent for duty purposes is 3.14 to bring duty to actual paper milreis basis.

Milreis is practically 6d. or 12c.

Imports through Rio de Janeiro pay 2% gold port tax calculated on an arbitrary formula:

Stated duty multiplied by 100
result divided by 50%2 milreis x 100 — 200 divided by 50 — 4 milreisof which 2% is 80 reis or .08 milreis. This is in gold which multiplied by 4.567 (ratio of gold to paper) equals 365 paper reis or .365 milreis.

Our representative in South America suggests adding 355 reis to cover use crane, cost of stamps, etc.

Tariff Preferences and Trade Agreements

N.B. Readers are reminded that taken as a whole the World's tariffs are undergoing constant changes. Rates of duty quoted in this statement are compiled from the records of the Department of Trade and Commerce, Ottawa, as of October, 1929.

As the result either of trade agreements or of tariff concessions, otherwise granted, reduced duties are in force in various parts of the British Empire favouring goods of Canadian origin as compared with similar goods of non-British origin. These preferences are of such importance to Canadian manufacturers or producers that particulars concerning the extent of them in the respective markets are given herewith. Following this information is an outline of Canadian trade conventions and treaty relationship with countries outside the British Empire.

GREAT BRITAIN

A Reciprocal Tariff, adopted by Canada in 1897, establishing reductions from the General Tariff of one-eighth of the duties, to be increased, after one year, to one-quarter, was made applicable to Great Britain, among other countries. The preference of one-quarter was incorporated in a purely British Preferential tariff, adopted by Canada in 1898, when the Reciprocal Tariff was repealed. In 1900, the British preference was increased to one-third and was kept at practically one-third in the Tariff Act of 1907, which, with various amendments, is still in force. There is no formal trade agreement between Canada and Great Britain but the aforementioned preferences have been in operation continuously since they were first introduced. United Kingdom Finance Acts of 1919 and later years provided for various Empire preferences.

Preferences of One-third in Great Britain

Great Britain imposes a general tariff of $33\frac{1}{3}\%$ ad valorem, and a preferential tariff one-third lower, that is, $22\frac{2}{9}\%$ ad valorem, on: Passenger motor cars, motor trucks, motorcycles, rubber tires and other accessories and parts of these vehicles; musical instruments and their accessories and parts; clocks and watches, and parts thereof; certain cutlery as defined in the tariff; gloves in whole or in part of leather, fur, or cotton, excluding astrakhan gloves or gloves only leather-trimmed; leather, fur or cotton when cut out for making gloves; lace and embroidery, as defined in the tariff; and buttons. Packing and wrapping paper and articles made therefrom are dutiable at $16\frac{2}{3}\%$ ad valorem general tariff, and $11\frac{1}{9}\%$ ad valorem preferential tariff. A one-third preference is allowed also on hops, upon which the general tariff is £4 per cwt. (112 lbs.) and on hop oil, general tariff £1 per ounce; and on domestic wrought enamelled hollowware of iron or steel, general tariff 25% ad valorem.

Tobacco, Sugar and Fruit Duties

Unmanufactured tobacco of Empire origin enters Great Britain under a preferential tariff of 81½d. to 90¾d. per pound, as compared with general tariff rates of 106d. to 118d. Various preferences are allowed on manufactured tobacco, including cigars, cigarettes, and snuff ranging from 29 3/8d. to 46¾d. per pound, providing the raw tobacco is of Empire origin.

Sugar is accorded preference if the raw product originate in a British area. The general tariff on sugar exceeding 98 degrees of polarization is 11s. 8d. per cwt. and the British preferential 4s. 9.2d. or 5s. 10d. Duties are graded downward for lower degrees of polarization. Fixed rates on various articles containing sugar, such as confectionery and preserved fruits, run from 18½d. per cwt. general tariff and 9¼d. preferential tariff up to the highest rates on actual sugar. Any article containing sugar is subject to some duty.

Duty is levied on certain foreign fruit, dried or otherwise preserved, namely, currants (2s. per cwt.) and prunes, raisins, figs, fig cake, French plums, prunellos, other plums (all 7s. per cwt.). When preserved with sugar these dutiable fruits, if of foreign origin, pay in addition the general tariff on the sugar content or become subject to the highest rate on sugar. If these goods are of Empire origin only the sugar content is dutiable.

Silk Duties

On silk and artificial silk or articles made wholly or in part from them, the preferential rate is one-sixth lower than the general tariff. There are various rates for tissues, yarns, etc. The General tariff rate on unspecified silk articles, if the silk or artificial silk component exceeds 20% of the value of all components, is $33\frac{1}{3}\%$ ad valorem; if from 5% to 20% of total, 10% ad valorem; if not exceeding 5% of total, 2% ad valorem.

Miscellaneous Preferences

Other preferences allowed are: Tableware of translucent or vitrified pottery and parts thereof, 9s. 4d. per cwt.; mantles for incandescent lighting, 2s. per gross; impregnated hose or stockings for manufacture of such mantles, 18d. per lb.; brandy, rum, and certain other spirits, 30d. or 33d. per proof gallon; liqueurs not to be tested, 3s. 4d., liquid gallon; perfumed spirits 4s. liquid gallon; glucose, 32d. or 44½d. per cwt.; saccharin 22½d. per ounce; cinematograph films, one-third of duty; wines, chicory, cocoa, coffee and molasses, various amounts.

Key Industry Duty

Articles called "key industry" goods taxed when of foreign origin, are entirely exempt from duty when of British Empire origin. In this list are arc-lamp carbons (1s. per lb.); optical instruments and parts (50% ad valorem); scientific glassware, lamp-blown ware, laboratory porcelain; barometers, precision balances, gauges and similar instruments used in engineering machine shops; wireless valves and similar rectifiers; vacuum tubes; ignition magnetos, and permanent magnets; hosiery latch needles; certain chemicals; metallic tungsten; molybdenum, vanadium, and their compounds; and some other goods (all $33\frac{1}{3}\%$ ad valorem).

Dutiable List not Extensive

The foregoing comprises almost the entire dutiable list of Great Britain, Empire products being favoured in nearly every instance where duty is levied.

NORTHERN IRELAND

The tariff of Great Britain is in force in Northern Ireland.

IRISH FREE STATE

The Irish Free State is granted the benefit of the British Preferential Tariff of Canada and in turn Canada enjoys all existing tariff preferences in the Irish Free State. Empire preferences of the Irish Free State include a rate of 22 2/9 per cent. ad valorem on: Clocks, watches, motor vehicles (not including rail cars or agricultural tractors), musical instruments, and accessories and component parts of any of the foregoing. These goods are all subject to 33 1/3 per cent. ad valorem under the general tariff. A one-third preference is allowed also on cinematograph films. The full or general rate for positives is 1d. per linear foot of the standard width of 1 3/8 inches, and for negatives, 5d. Certain woollen and worsted tissues are subject to a full rate of 25 per cent. ad valorem, and a preferential rate of 20 per cent. ad valorem.

The following general tariff rates of the Irish Free State are reduced by one-sixth for Empire goods: Cocoa preparations, 6d. per lb.; plums, prunes, figs, fig cake, and raisins, all dried or otherwise preserved without sugar, 10s. 6d. per cwt. of 112 lbs.; currants, dried or otherwise preserved without sugar, 2s. per cwt.; fruit, candied, crystallized, or otherwise preserved with sugar or other sweetening matter (not including saccharine) 3 3/5d. per lb.; fruit in syrup, 1 1/5d. or 3 3/5d. per lb.; sugar confectionery, including breads, biscuits, cakes, cake mixtures, puddings and powders, sweetmeats, jams, marmalades, and jellies, all when containing sugar or other sweetening matter (not including saccharine) and not containing cocoa 3 3/5d. per lb.; cigars, 15s. 7d. per lb.; cigarettes, 12s. 7d. per lb.; other manufactured tobacco, including snuff, 9s. 9 1/2d., 10s. 4 1/2d., or 11s. 10 1/2d. per lb.

On most spirits and strong waters, there is a preference of 2s. 6d. per proof gallon; on certain liqueurs and perfumed spirits 3s. 4d. or 4s. per liquid gallon, and on wines, preferences of 30, 33 1/3, 40, or 50 per cent. of the full duty. Spirits are taxed even when an ingredient of other goods.

The Irish Free State imposes duty on a few other articles without preference.

AUSTRALIA

Under an Act of Parliament passed in 1925, Canada grants to Australia, reduced duties, or alternatively the lowest rates accorded to any British country, on raisins, currants, some other fruits, certain meats and meat products, butter, eggs, cheese, sugar, honey, onions, canned vegetables, and a few other articles. Australia, in return, extends to Canada certain British preferential or intermediate rates of her tariff.

The British preferential rates thus secured for Canadian goods entering Australia are: Tinned fish, 1d. per lb. (general tariff 2 1/2d.); fish, fresh, smoked, or dried not salted, or preserved by cold process, 1d. per lb. (g.t. 1 1/2d.); potted and concentrated fish, 25% ad valorem (g.t. 25%); oysters, fresh, in the shell, 2s. per cwt. of 112 lb. (g.t. 2s.); fish unspecified in the tariff, 5s. per cwt. (g.t. 6s.); textile gloves not including harvesting, driving, housemaids' and gardening, free (g.t. 25% ad valorem); typewriters, cash registers, printing machines and presses, adding and computing machines, type-composing, electrotyping, stereotyping and aluminum rotary graining machines, all free (g.t. 10% ad valorem); newsprint and other printing paper as defined, in rolls at least 10 inches wide or in sheets at least 500 square inches, free (g.t. £3 per ton of 2,240 lbs.); printing paper in smaller sizes, 15% ad valorem (g. t. 25%); writing and typewriting paper, plain, not including duplicating, in sheets not less than 16 by 13 inches, free with deferred duty of 20% ad valorem (g.t. 10% ad valorem, deferred duty 30%).

Canada is accorded Australian intermediate tariff rates on motor car chassis whether or not imported as part of a complete motor car. These rates are 22 1/2% ad valorem if the chassis is unassembled and 30% ad valorem if assembled. The corresponding general tariff rates are 27 1/2% and 35%, respectively. When accompanying a chassis or motor car, storage batteries are granted intermediate rates of 35% or 47 1/2% as compared with 40% or 60% respectively under the general tariff, and sparking plugs, 55% as compared with 60%. On many kinds of vehicle parts Canada enjoys an intermediate rate of 50% ad valorem, where the general tariff is 55%. Other intermediate rates 5% ad valorem less than the general tariff given to Canada are: Corsets, 40% ad valorem; certain iron and steel pipes or tubes, 5% with deferred duty of 55%. Goloshes, rubbers and boots and shoes, and plimsolls, have an intermediate rate of 1s. 9d. per pair, or if higher, 30% ad valorem, compared with a general tariff of 2s. per pair, or if higher, 35%.

NEW ZEALAND

Under a measure called the Preferential and Reciprocal Trade Act, adopted in 1903, New Zealand established an Imperial preferential tariff on some goods which was applicable to Canada. In the following year a Canadian Order-in-Council was passed granting to New Zealand the British Preferential schedule in force in Canada at that time. In subsequent tariff enactments these two Dominions gave to each other the full benefit of their respective British Preferential Schedules. This means that Canada and New Zealand, in the absence of any formal trade agreement, exchange tariff preferences with each other on nearly all classes of dutiable goods. The Canadian concessions to Australia in the trade agreement of 1925 were also extended to New Zealand by Order-in-Council. Appended are British Preferential and General tariff rates in force in New Zealand on goods such as comprise some of the leading imports from Canada entering under a tariff preference. The duties shown in the British preferential column apply to Canada. All goods not of Empire origin are subject to the general tariff:

There is a primage duty of 2% ad valorem on nearly all imports into New Zealand whether or not the goods are subject to customs duty.

WESTERN SAMOA

With the exception only of tobaccos and duty free goods, imports into Western Samoa (mandated territory governed by New Zealand) are taxed 22½ per cent. general tariff and 15 per cent. British preferential tariff. Canada is accorded the preferential rate. All imports into Western Samoa are liable to a port and customs service tax of 2½ per cent. ad valorem. The Samoa preferences were established by a New Zealand Order in Council in 1920. Canada extended her British preferential tariff to this territory in 1924.

UNION OF SOUTH AFRICA

Since 1904, Canada has been granting her British preferential schedule to that portion of the Empire now comprising the Union of South Africa. The Union tariff at present consists of schedules of Maximum and Minimum Duties. Some Minimum rates are extended to the United Kingdom and some to Canada and to New Zealand. There is an agreement between the Union of South Africa and Southern and Northern Rhodesia, providing for duty-free exchange of goods (with a few exceptions) and one with the Portuguese Colony of Mozambique, under which each party grants the other exemption from import duty on a small list of specified articles.

The minimum rates which the Union of South Africa accords to Canada are: Wheat in the grain, 17d. per 100 lbs. (maximum duty 19d.); wheaten flour, 40d. per 100 lbs. (maximum 44d.); tinned fish, not including caviare, lax, lobster, anchovies, or fish pastes, 1d. per lb. (maximum 1¼d.); socks, 10% ad valorem (maximum 15%); stockings, 5% ad valorem (maximum 10%); seaming and binding twine and harvest yarn, free, suspended duty 10% ad valorem (maximum 5%, suspended duty 10%); white lead, dry, 6s. per 100 lbs. (maximum 7s.); white lead, ground in oil, 9s. or 10s. per 100 lbs. (maximum 10s. and 11s. respectively); rubber pneumatic tires, except those for manufacturing or assembling chassis in bond, 10d. per lb. (maximum 12d.); tubes for motor cycles and cycles, 10d. per lb. (maximum 12d.); tubes for other motor vehicles, 6d. per lb. (maximum 7½d.); solid rubber tires, 2d. per lb. (maximum 3d.); electrical cooking and heating appliances, not including certain machinery or electric irons for industrial purposes, 15% ad valorem (maximum 20%); newsprint in reels or in the flat, free (maximum 5% ad valorem); unmanufactured wood, free (maximum 3% ad valorem); mechanics' tools, except agricultural implements and machine tools, free (maximum 3% ad valorem); and the following material for gas, steam, drainage, sewerage, irrigation, water supply, and water pumping: unriveted wrought iron or steel pipes and tubes except down-piping and guttering, free (maximum 1s. per 100 lbs.); cast iron pipes and tubes, except down-pipes and guttering, free (maximum 8d. per 100 lbs.); down-piping and guttering and fittings therefor, riveted wrought iron or steel pipes and tubes, and cisterns, 15% ad valorem (maximum 20%); water meters for house connections, not exceeding 1 inch piping, free (maximum 3s. each); spare parts of the foregoing water meters, and cocks, taps, meters, and certain pipe fittings, free (maximum 5% ad valorem.) Grids, manhole covers and fittings, and surface boxes, are excluded from this material for gas, steam, etc. which is accorded preference.

BASUTOLAND, BECHUANALAND, SWAZILAND, SOUTH-WEST AFRICA AND WALVIS BAY

The tariff situation in Basutoland, Bechuanaland, Swaziland, South-West Africa, and Walvis Bay, is the same as in the Union of South Africa.

RHODESIA

The British preferential schedule of the Canadian tariff is extended to Southern Rhodesia and to Northern Rhodesia. The tariffs now in force in Southern Rhodesia and in the Zambesi Basin of Northern Rhodesia admit many articles free of duty under the British preferential tariff (applicable to Canada) which are dutiable at 3% ad valorem under the general tariff. The preferential rate on another extensive list of goods is 9% ad valorem, as compared with a general tariff rate of 20% ad valorem.

Some of the exceptions to these rates are of importance to Canada. Canadian motor cars enter Southern Rhodesia at 12% ad valorem, cars of non-British origin being subject to a duty of 20%. In Northern Rhodesia (Zambesi Basin), Canadian motor cars are 8½% as compared with 10%, general tariff. Pneumatic rubber tyres and tubes are also among the exceptions. Most foodstuffs are subject to duty on a quantity basis. On wheat flour, for example, the preferential rate in both tariffs is 27d. per 100 lb., and the general rate, 30d.

BRITISH WEST INDIES, BERMUDA, BRITISH GUIANA AND BRITISH HONDURAS

The British preference established by Canada in 1898 and continued in amended form under the tariff act of 1907, still in force, was made applicable on each occasion to the British West Indies, Bermuda, and British Guiana. This preference was extended to British Honduras in 1913. In 1913 also Canada ratified a formal trade agreement with most of these colonies which obtained West Indian preferential rates of four-fifths of the general tariff on some Canadian goods in exchange for corresponding reductions on some West Indian products entering Canada. In 1920, a second trade agreement superseding the former one was negotiated which was broader both as to the extent of preference exchanged, and the number of West Indian colonies concerned.

The 1920 trade agreement was replaced in 1925 by a still more extensive one which was brought formally into force by proclamation as from April 30th, 1927, and is for a ten-year period. Under this agreement Canada, briefly stated, grants the colonies: (a) specific amounts of preference on sugar and some other selected tropical products; (b) 50% reduction from the general tariff on goods for which no special provision is made. The reciprocal concessions in the colonies are given herewith in more detail.

West Indian Flour Preference

Under the agreement Trinidad, Barbados, Jamaica, Bahamas, British Guiana, and British Honduras guarantee a preference of 2 shillings (formerly 1 shilling) per barrel of 196 pounds on flour. The Leeward Islands (Antigua, Dominica, Montserrat, St. Kitts-Nevis, and Virgin Islands) and the Windward Islands (Grenada, St. Lucia, and St. Vincent) undertook to use their best endeavours to similarly increase the flour preference, and this has since been done by nearly all these colonies.

Preferences of 66 2/3 Per Cent. in Some Colonies

Trinidad, Barbados, and British Guiana give a preference of not less than 66 2/3 per cent. with a guaranteed specific amount as indicated on: apples (50 cents per barrel); beef and pork, salted and pickled (\$1.50 per barrel of 200 pounds); butter, cheese, and lard (\$1.50 per 100 pounds); fish, canned, preserved, dried, salted, smoked, or pickled (2s. per 100 pounds); confectionery (4 cents per pound); prepared cocoa (4 cents per pound; 2 cents in Barbados); condensed milk (1s. per case of 48 pounds); cordage (6s. per 100 pounds); cement (2s. per cask of 400 pounds). The preferences in these colonies are 66 $\frac{2}{3}$ per cent. on boards, planks, scantling, shingles, and lath (not of pitch pine), and on boots and shoes. The Leeward Islands and the Windward Islands also agreed to endeavour to grant these preferences and many new tariff advantages to Canada have been accorded on this account.

Jamaica, Bahamas, British Honduras

Jamaica, the Bahamas, and British Honduras, agreed to preferences of not less than 50 per cent. on butter, cheese, lard, condensed milk, meats of all kinds, fish (canned, preserved, dried, salted, smoked or pickled), apples and potatoes.

Bermuda

The preference agreed to by Bermuda was the removal, in the case of Canadian goods, of a surtax of 10 per cent. of duty which had been levied for some time on dutiable imports from all countries. This preference which applied to the whole Empire was effective from July 1926 to the end of 1928, when it was increased through making the surtax on non-British goods 25 per cent. of the duty otherwise imposed.

General Preferences in West Indies

The following table sets forth the general preference stipulated for the different colonies in the case of goods not specially dealt with in the agreement as well as a list of what may be called typical or prevailing rates in the different tariffs.

Name of Colony	Preference Reduction	General Tariff	Rate to Canada	Surtax on Duty (a)
Trinidad & Tobago.....	50%	20% ad valorem	10% ad valorem	7½%
Barbados.....	50%	20% ad valorem	10% ad valorem	10%

Montserrat.....	33⅓%	15% ad valorem	10% ad valorem
Virgin Islands.....	33⅓%	12% ad valorem	8% ad valorem	2%
Bermuda.....	Removal of surtax (c)	10% plus surtax	10% no surtax	25%
British Guiana.....	50%	33⅓% ad valorem	16⅔% ad valorem
British Honduras.....	33⅓% (d)	20% ad valorem	10% ad valorem

(a) Surtaxes are levied on the amount of duty only, and not on the value of the goods.

(b) The Bahamas agreed to endeavour to make their percentage of preference 50%.

(c) Bermuda preference consists of removal of surtax on duties which was 10% of duty up to December 31, 1928, and 25% since that date.

(d) British Honduras although the preference stipulated in the agreement is 33⅓% gives on nearly all goods a 50% preference.

There are many exceptions to these so-called prevailing rates but, on the other hand, they apply to a wide range of goods, which in most of the tariffs would include: apparel; bags (travelling and tool), trunks, and valises; baskets; blacking and polishes; blue; brooms and brushes; buckets, pails, and tubs; bicycles and tricycles; chinaware, porcelain, earthenware, and pottery; clocks and watches; cutlery; electrical apparatus (some important exceptions); furniture; glass and glassware; grease; gums; haberdashery and millinery; hardware; hats and bonnets; medicines (with some exceptions); musical instruments; oilcloth and linoleum; pickles, condiments, and sauces; spices; provision (with many exceptions); saddlery and harness; ships, boats, and launches; stationery; toys and games; umbrellas and parsols; wax. Subject to the same rates there are also comprehensive items for goods not otherwise provided for, being manufactures of cotton, linen, wool, silk, jute, hemp, leather, india-rubber and gutta-percha, metal, wood, and all unenumerated goods.

Motor Vehicles and Machinery

Although motor cars are subject to the prevailing rates given above in most of the colonies there are important exceptions: In Trinidad, motor cars not exceeding 3,000 pounds in weight are dutiable at 15 shillings per 100 pounds British preferential tariff and 30 shillings general tariff; if exceeding 3,000 pounds, 20 shillings preferential and 40 shillings general. The usual surtax of $7\frac{1}{2}$ per cent. is applicable. The British Guiana rates are 20 per cent. British preferential and 40 per cent. general tariff, and those of the Bahamas $7\frac{1}{2}$ per cent. and 10 per cent. respectively. The Windward group has a 5 per cent. rate for motor vehicles, made wholly from British material by British labour compared with 10 or 15 per cent. if the cars qualified for preference under the normal requirement of a 25 per cent. British content.

Certain kinds of machinery, agricultural implements, and agricultural tools are frequently subject to rates of duty lower than the typical rates in question or are exempt from duty.

Spirits, Wines, Tobaccos, Gasoline

Tobacco, cigars, cigarettes, and spirituous or alcoholic liquors are excepted from the preference list on the Canadian side. Tobacco, cigars, and cigarettes are excepted from the list of merchandise on which any of the colonies are bound to give preference. The Bahamas added to the exceptions wines, malt liquors, spirits, spirituous liquors, liquid medicines and articles containing alcohol, while Bermuda added wines, spirits, and malt liquors. The other colonies agreed to certain specified preferences on spirits, wine, beer and ale. British Guiana stipulated a preference of not less than 4 cents per gallon on gasoline and kerosene, when refined from crude oil produced in British territory. Preferences, actually granted, however, are sometimes beyond the requirements of the agreement.

General Exemptions from Duty

The tariffs of British West Indian colonies have duty-free lists usually including goods for Colonial Governments, military or naval purposes, municipalities, churches, educational institutions, hospitals, or certain organizations of a public nature. These provisions for exempting goods from duty are not the same in all the colonies, but the general effect is about as indicated. Although these duty-free lists are mentioned, it should be borne in mind that the rates of duty, British preferential and general, quoted, apply in the case of merchandise imported in the usual way for commercial purposes. Some articles, of course, are duty-free no matter for what purpose they are imported.

Application of Preferences

The British preferential rates quoted are in nearly every instance extended to the whole Empire. The general tariff rates apply to all goods of non-British origin.

CYPRUS

Cyprus grants tariff preferences to Canadian or other Empire products. The preferential rate on motor cars and motor cycles and parts of either is 10% ad valorem as compared with a general tariff of 30% ad valorem. The general tariff on many articles is 20 per cent. ad valorem and there are preferential rebates usually of one-third or one-sixth of the duty. Aircraft and accessories enjoy a 75% preference. Canada extends to Cyprus her intermediate tariff and on some items lower rates, in consequence of most-favoured-nation treatment being granted to all parts of the Empire.

FIIJI

The colony of Fiji has been under the British preferential schedule of the Canadian tariff since 1913 while Canadian products entering Fiji benefit from Empire preferences established in 1922. The prevailing ad valorem rates of the Fiji tariff, which would apply to important imports from Canada, are 20%, British preferential tariff, and 35%, general tariff. Timber, dressed or surfaced, over 2 inches wide, is dutiable at 2s. 6d. per 100 superficial feet, British preferential tariff; if undressed, 2s. per 100 superficial feet. The general tariff rates on these classes of lumber are 3s. 9d. and 3s. respectively. Other goods subject to specific duty usually enjoy a 50% preference. In addition to the tariff, Fiji has a port and customs service tax of 1% ad valorem.

BRITISH BORNEO

The three British customs are as in the island of Borneo, viz., Brunei, British North Borneo, and Sarawak, have been accorded the British preferential schedule of the Canadian tariff since 1913.

Brunei, since 1926, has maintained a preferential rate of one-half the general tariff rate (5% ad valorem) on motor vehicles of Canadian or United Kingdom origin.

British North Borneo has been granting to the United Kingdom, since 1927, and to Canada, since 1928, a preferential rate of three-fourths of the full rate on the following: Vehicles including motor vehicles; machinery and machines; metals, manufactured or unmanufactured; cutlery; glassware; earthenware, crockery and porcelain; cloth, clothing, haberdashery; perfumery; chemicals and dyes; timepieces; and vessels. The general tariff rate on all these commodities (except glassware 5%) is 10% ad valorem.

Sarawak preferences on motor vehicles and accessories including tyres, amounting to remission of the whole of the duty, namely, 10%, 15%, or 20% ad valorem, have been accorded to Great Britain and Northern Ireland, since 1928; also, since 1929, preferences on engines, boilers and machinery amounting to the whole duty of 15% ad valorem. All these preferences were extended to Canada and the rest of the Empire as from April 1, 1929.

MAURITIUS

Mauritius gives a preference for Canadian motor vehicles, their parts and accessories, including rubber tyres and tubes, as compared with similar products imported from any other country except Great Britain and Ireland.

GIBRALTAR

Gibraltar has preferential rates on certain alcoholic beverages and perfumed spirits, of Canadian or other Empire origin.

FRANCE

Canada, in 1922, entered into a convention of commerce with France which superseded former conventions. The 1922 convention became effective on September 5, 1923, is still in force, being for no stated period but terminable upon six months' notice by either party.

The tariff reductions which Canada makes in favour of France, briefly stated, are: (a) the intermediate tariff or most-favoured-nation treatment; (b) on a specified list of goods fixed rates usually between the British preferential and the intermediate tariffs; (c) on certain goods rates lower than the intermediate tariff by 10 or 15 per cent. of the duty.

The reciprocal concessions obtained from France, summarized are: (a) French minimum rates of duty on a specified list of goods including most-favoured-nation treatment except for stipulations in regard to possible economic agreements with border states or tariff benefits which France might grant to facilitate financial settlements with former enemy countries i.e., during 1914-1918; (b) certain percentage reductions from the French general tariff on another list of goods, or, if lower, the rates of duty which France applies to United States products of a similar kind which, in practice, has resulted in many minimum rates applying to Canada; (c) on other goods the French general tariff without the increase made by decree of March 28, 1921, to the extent that United States products are exempted from that advance in duties.

French colonies, possessions, and protectorates are included in the convention. Those colonies, etc. which have not the same tariff as France are to give Canada the rates granted to the most favoured foreign nation. Special provision is made for minimum tariff treatment for Canadian food products in St. Pierre, Miquelon, French West Indies and French Guiana. It is to be noted that some of the French Colonies have only a single-schedule tariff.

Tariff Systems and Favoured-Nation Treatment

The Canadian tariff reductions comprised under the heading of most-favoured-nation treatment are at present the concessions which Canada makes in her Convention of Commerce with France. Most-favoured-nation treatment to foreign countries, it will be seen, does not include Canadian preferences to other parts of the Empire. All parts of the Empire, however, are accorded the tariff favours that Canada grants to any foreign country.

The reciprocal concessions obtained by Canada under most-favoured-nation arrangements with foreign countries vary widely depending on the tariff systems of the respective contracting countries. It will be a question of whether or not such country has a double tariff, that is to say, has established duties lower than a general tariff and, if so, to what extent. Concessions may be far reaching enough to provide reductions on all dutiable imports. There may be reductions only on a limited list of goods usually being conventional duties arising out of trade treaties. Or there may be no differential rates whatever since many foreign countries have in force a single schedule of duties regardless of whether they are under favoured-nation obligations to other states. Another point to be kept in mind in estimating the effect of favoured-nation treatment in a particular market is the position of competing countries in the same market. There will be, of course, no preference over any competing country which is also entitled to the lowest tariff.

In the remainder of this review will be found frequent reference to exchange of most-favoured-nation treatment between Canada and other countries.

ITALY, BELGIUM, NETHERLANDS, CZECHOSLOVAKIA

Conventions of commerce have been arranged by Canada with Italy (1923), Belgium and Luxembourg (1924), the Netherlands (1924), and Czechoslovakia (1928). The dates mentioned show when the conventions were entered into and they were all shortly afterwards brought into force. The conventions are on the principle of exchange of most-favoured-nation treatment in tariff matters. In the case of Italy and Belgium, the colonies are included. The Netherlands convention extends to the Netherlands Indies, Surinam, and Curacao. Italy and Czechoslovakia have in force many conventional rates of duty.

JAPAN, FINLAND, SPAIN

By means of the Japanese Treaty Act of 1913 Canada sanctioned, with certain provisos, the Treaty of Commerce and Navigation of 1911 between the United Kingdom and Japan, as a result of which Canada and Japan now exchange most-favoured-nation tariff treatment of each other's goods. There are some conventional Japanese duties.

By accepting certain terms of the Anglo-Finnish Treaty of 1923, Canada established most-favoured-nation relationship in tariff matters on a reciprocal basis with Finland, with certain exceptions in regard to possible Finnish preferences to imports from Esthonia, Latvia, and Lithuania. Finland has in force some reduced duties arising out of treaties.

A Canadian Act was passed in 1928 sanctioning a Treaty of Commerce and Navigation between the United Kingdom and Spain, signed October 21, 1922, as revised by a Convention signed April 5, 1927, as well as the Anglo-Spanish Agreement signed on June 27, 1924, regulating the treatment of companies. The Spanish Treaty Act in question established between Canada and Spain exchange of most-favoured-nation treatment of each other's goods in respect of customs duties with special reservation in regard to Spanish treatment of the produce or manufactures of Portugal or the Spanish Zone of Morocco. Spain has in force a First (higher) and Second (lower) schedule of duties.

SEVEN EUROPEAN COUNTRIES

The Canadian Trade Agreement Act of 1928 accepted on the part of Canada certain provisions of treaties or agreements existing between the United Kingdom and the following countries: Esthonia, January 18, 1926; Hungary, July 23, 1926; Latvia, June 22, 1923; Lithuania, May 6, 1922; Portugal, August 12, 1914; Roumania, May 11/24, 1923; Jugo-Slavia, May 12, 1927. The Act stipulates that Canada is to grant these countries as favourable tariff treatment as is granted to any other foreign country so long as Canadian goods are given treatment by such countries as favourable as that granted to similar goods produced or manufactured in the United Kingdom. In other words, there is to be an exchange of most-favoured-nation treatment in tariff matters. All these countries have complete double tariffs except Lithuania which has two schedules of rates for some goods and Hungary which has in force many conventional duties.*

OLD BRITISH TREATIES

On account of certain old British treaties, Canada grants most-favoured-nation treatment in tariff matters to Denmark (1660-1 and 1670), Argentine Republic (1825), Venezuela (1825), Norway (1826), Sweden (1826), Switzerland (1855), and Colombia (1866). The most-favoured-nation clauses in these treaties entitle Canada to the lowest rates of duty that may at any time be put in force in the countries in question.

CUBA

A trade agreement between Canada and Cuba went into effect on November 22, 1927, for one year, and was renewed on November 22, 1928, for another year, unless a permanent trade convention was concluded earlier. Under this agreement Canada grants to Cuba the benefits of the Canadian intermediate tariff, in return for which Canadian products are accorded the Cuban general (or normal), tariff, which is one-half of the Maximum tariff. The Cuban tariff on United States goods is from 20 to 40 per cent. less than the general tariff, this being an absolute preference over all other countries.

Explanation of List

THE list beginning on the opposite page comprises the names and addresses, alphabetically arranged, of all firms appearing in the classified section of the Canadian Trade Index. In this list we have tried to give the users of the book some information that will be useful in getting into quick touch with the makers of any desired article.

No street addresses are given in Part III (the classified article section). These are recorded where necessary to complete the address in Part II (the alphabetical list).

We have not attempted to give, in this list, any full account of the products. These will all be found under separate headings in the classified section on pages 317 and following. Only where the firm or company name does not indicate the line of goods manufactured have we mentioned some of the articles produced.

The address given is that of the main place of business in Canada, usually the head office, although it may be both factory and office address. The addresses given later, under "Factories," are those of branch factories. Where branch offices in Canada are mentioned stock is generally carried at these points.

For. Rep. or simply Rep. means foreign or other representative for export sales purposes.

The Cable addresses and codes will be found useful in initiating and transacting export business.

PART III
Alphabetical List
OF Articles Manufactured
in Canada
WITH
The Names of All Firms
Manufacturing Them

Guide to Classified Index

THE method of indexing the material on the succeeding pages is that by which the most important word in headings is generally placed first. The arrangement then proceeds in the proper alphabetical order. In the majority of cases it will be found that the noun or main name comes first, i.e.---Furniture, bedroom; Hardware, builders'; Leather, boot and shoe upper, etc. This allows the grouping of all similar articles close together. In other cases, where the inversion seems unnatural, the headings have been listed as they run—Saw swages; Piano hammers; Fly paper, etc., etc. If any difficulty is experienced in locating desired headings or articles, users of the book should try both forms of listing. This will enable the heading to be found if it appears in the book at all.

In all cases we have endeavored to use the names most commonly known. It is possible that we have listed some articles and materials under names that differ from those that our subscribers use. Synonyms will therefore be useful to bear in mind.

Cross references have been supplied where two or more names are commonly used to describe the same article.

Street addresses of the firms listed in the classified section are provided where necessary in the alphabetical list of names (on blue sheets) immediately preceding the Classified Section (Part III, pages 317 to 665).

Attention is also called to the French Index of articles, which is placed immediately after the Produce Section (Part IV, pages 667 to 672). In a limited edition a Spanish Index also appears following the French Index.

Firms before whose name an asterisk appears are engaged or seriously interested in Export Trade.

Corrections and revisions of these lists are made periodically by the Commercial Intelligence Department of the Canadian Manufacturers Association.

We shall be glad to have the opportunity of giving additional information to any manufacturer or user of the Canadian Trade Index. No charge is made for this service
